

WE NOMINATE

John Dunn Davies, the able, imaginative and energetic editor of the Princeton Alumni Weekly and one of this community's most perceptive chroniclers of the passing Princeton scene, who this week — in his 14th year of service and with only a brief word of warning to those closest to the Weekly — announced his resignation as editor. The about-to-be-mailed December 10th issue of the Weekly carries a tightly written three-paragraph Editor's Box. It is headed "WANTED: NEW EDITOR" and in it the 50-year old Davies, with over 400 issues behind him, writes "there should be a changing of the guard. Younger alumni of experience and imagination are invited to apply."

In possibly rationalizing his resignation, a decision of his own making, Davies notes: "What was once originality has become rigidified into formula; in the meantime a new audience has been born no longer interested in the novelties of yesteryear. Time for a change. So with the Weekly, Princeton has become in recent years one of the most vital, innovative universities in the Western world, and its alumni body — the only graduate body still interested enough to sustain a weekly journal — deserves the finest possible magazine to cover all of its multiplex activities in a creative, imaginative fashion."

Davies' "Legend of Hobey Baker," a carefully done biography of one of Princeton's "athletic immortals" and the third major work from his facile pen, is reminiscent of his approach to his editorship of the Weekly, the only college publication of its type in the nation. Ever since accepting the post in 1955, he has sought to produce a polished, readable magazine dedicated to interpreting the University to some 40,000 readers. And, on balance, he has succeeded admirably — while raising the hackles of the University Administration which has no control whatsoever over editorial policies and, from week to week, has waited to read what "Davies has to say."

Born in Chicago on St. Patrick's Day and reared in Detroit with an "assist" from the Hotchkiss School (Lakeville, Conn.), Davies sailed through Princeton with the Class of 1911, graduating with Highest Honors in Art and Archaeology. A nerve-racking year as a junior airport manager with Pan-American Airways on the Amazon River was followed by graduate study in fine arts at Harvard. When the Navy relaxed its restrictions on eyesight in 1913, the bespectacled Davies qualified for overseas duty and as a member of an Engineer Regiment attached to the 4th Marine Division "saw a heck of a lot of the war" in the Pacific.

After World War II, in preparing for college teaching, Davies switched from the fine arts to history and from Harvard to Yale, shifts "making me one of the few Harvard-Yale-Princeton types around." Two years of teaching at the University of Minnesota and four at Smith College preceded his return to Princeton in 1955 to labor over articles and "make-up" rather than scholarly lectures. Stirring memories of his early aspirations to become a museum curator, Davies shares with his wife, a tireless worker in any number of community service enterprises, an absorbing interest in constantly adding to the splendid collection of abstract sculpture and painting in their Heather Lane home.

For succeeding in raising ever higher the standards of "Princeton journalism"; for focussing attention on what he has termed "the real news about Princeton, the relations of the Town to the University, of the faculty to the commuters, and the Town's huge Potential"; for his enduring achievements as editor and writer; he is TOWN TOPICS nominee as

WHO'S A RACIST?
(You, Not Me) Princeton residents, largely white in number, sat around once again on Sunday afternoon and evening, much as they had eight months ago after Martin Luther King's death, and talked again about how racist Princeton is.

The occasion was a three-part talk-in at the First Presbyterian Church on the "Hard Realities—Real Hopes" of the Princeton schools. The session was sparked by the resignation of Kenneth Michael as principal of Princeton High School.

The afternoon began with a panel on "The Citizen, The System and the Community," continued as a panel of teens, including two black students, talked about student life in Princeton and concluded, after a supper break, with a discussion by several ministers of the role that could be played by "the community of faith."

The Rev. C. Snelly Roark, on Panel No. One, said, "We must put it on the table and talk about it, dealing with it in better fashion than we have," and talk about it is just what everyone did.

"This is the 35th session of white guilt admission I've been through," was the last comment of Thomas Hartmann, also on Panel No. One, "and it's very tiring. Few people learn anything. We've got to convince people to solve these problems because it's in their own self-interest to solve them."

RACISM EXAMINED: First Presbyterian Church was filled Sunday for a five-hour community discussion on what Princeton can do to improve racial relations, particularly in its schools. (Staff Photo)

Hard Realities. Race, drugs, the kind of education that meets the needs of all kids, and the straining problem of financing public schools in New Jersey were regarded by almost all panelists as the hard realities faced by Princeton's schools.

On race in the schools, a young black Princeton girl named Wendy Oldham who attends Stuart Country Day, provided a shaft of insight into young black loneliness in a white school.

"The few black students are overlooked—but unintentionally overlooked—in social areas, mean, friends and dances and stuff like that. . . ."

Her poignant comment was not picked up, either by the other teen panelists or by adults in the audience.

Wendy said she had applied for her scholarship to Stuart because she wasn't getting anywhere. "I was going down hill" in public schools. She said she believed that Stuart is doing the best it can in race relations. "It's really trying."

"Lots of my friends at Princeton High have not received any college counseling," Wendy said. "They're not really encouraged to go to college."

The Rev. Mr. Roark underscored her comment. Among black parents in Princeton, he said, "the suspicion is universal that the public school system discriminates," assumes black children won't go to college and is "indifferent to the legitimate aspirations of black youngsters and parents."

Black Participation? "Negro students just don't participate in school activities," commented Mrs. Simoon Moss from the audience. Mrs. Moss, former Princeton teacher said, "Schools should go out of their way to find these kids and make them feel wanted in a school activity."

Music and sports, Mr. Roark observed, had a higher degree of black student participation because "that's what whites expect of blacks."

Kenneth Michael, who had inspired the meeting but had not expected to participate in it, found himself on Panel No. One replacing Dr. Philip McPherson, school superintendent, who was down with flu. "A certain degree of racial tension exists at the high school," he said, but he talked only 15-20 black students and 15-20 whites who cause it. "Maybe 40 students at the most," he said, "but the other students and their parents just stay on the sidelines, doing nothing."

Mr. Michael admitted that his high school "hasn't come up with programs fully meeting the needs of all students" and is chiefly geared to students who will continue formal education after high school.

However, he pointed to such vocational offerings as the Trade and Industry course and a course in wholesaling-retailing as strong starts.

Teens Speak. On the teen panel was Robert Brooks, a young Muslim who uses his Islamic name, Ba-ha. "At first, I thought of Mr. Michael as nothing but an other white man," he told the audience. "He's tried to do a job, but he's been fighting the battle alone."

Basha described a time when a dozen boys were gathered on Clay Street talking. A car pulled up.

"We thought it was just another white man, but we saw it was Mr. Michael," they Basha said, and got out of the car. There had been some race problem. He was so worried, he didn't have his shoes tied. He's a MAN—right in the middle of it! When he says he's going to quit, you go back and think. . . ."

As the theme of racism in the schools wove back and forth, Mr. Roark said he had been, although he described himself with a smile as "a needer."

He praised the school's Black Culture Curriculum Committee, then added, "But why did it have to be interracial? Didn't the school trust black teachers to prepare that curriculum?"

Mrs. George Fremont, president of the school board, rose from the audience and did in some dismay that this was the first time she had ever heard anyone object to the interracial composition of the committee.

"It's difficult to understand sometimes why black people mean by racism," she said. "A teacher said to me, 'I just have no way of knowing when I offend a black child, and what is worse, I don't know how I'll ever find out!'"

Sensitivity Lacking. In the evening, when the ministers had the floor, the Rev. Edward Dewey of Princeton Seminary suggested that "information and sensitivity are part of the problem. Maybe we should ask the blacks what they need."

"Racism has become a rigid thing," the Rev. Mr. Dewey observed. "We have been GUILTY. We have been INJURED. This attitude, on both sides, is productive of death." "Insensitivity" became a synonym for "racism" in some of the dialogue. John Marks, school board member, suggested that the University was insensitive when it allowed under-graduates to live off campus. "They pushed family—Continued on Next Page

How to Buy a Perfume

by Christian Dior

Be sure you test the perfume by spraying it. (Dabbing concentrates it too much . . . not at all like the true fragrance.)

If you like the spray effect, open your purse carefully and let a little money surface.

Not too much.

A little money for a smallish bottle. (Perfume, like wine, changes when opened.) So buy small and use regularly—as you do lipstick. It's essential to good grooming.

One more salient fact — the kind of perfume.

It should be a lifting name easy to remember. A mystical name hard to forget.

Take our word for it . . . Dior.

For your sake . . . and for his.

Christmas Fund Enlists Your Help

(from the 1968 TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal)

The following paragraphs have been condensed from a social worker's copious notes:

"Kay D. is a bright, outgoing 6-year-old who came to our attention through her school. In spite of her abilities, she was unable to concentrate on her work and seemed to cling to adults expressing any kind of interest or affection. She was underweight, inadequately dressed and had not received obviously needed medical attention. Kay's mother was initially suspicious and possibly resentful of Family Service, expecting that she might be blamed for her daughter's problems.

"However, she was gradually made aware that our concern was also for her and the burdens she was carrying in raising 3 children alone. As we succeeded in finding medical services and care for her children while she worked, Mrs. D. became more and more anxious to examine her feelings for Kay. The child had not been wanted and Mrs. D. once tended to see her as being like the father—who had deserted Mrs. D. when she needed him most."

"Once Mrs. D. had identified the source of her anger, she could see Kay as a little girl urgently in need of her mother's attention and love rather than as a person making demands upon her. We are moving steadily ahead and are encouraged by the response of mother and daughter alike."

Donors have in the past sent contributions as a gift in the name of friend, and TOWN TOPICS will, upon request, send acknowledgment to the individual designated. All cases carried in the appeal have been verified by the Family Service Agency.

Six days after the appeal was published, $820 had been contributed. Checks should be made payable to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund and mailed to P.O. Box 664, Princeton.

lies out of the John Witherspoon area," he pointed out.

The schools' forthcoming "Wednesday" program" was described by Mrs. Yukiko Tamashiro, teacher on the Wednesday Council, and by Mr. Brooks as a positive way Princeton people can work directly to make their schools better.

"Wednesdays" call for participation by 40 Princeton volunteer citizens in workshop sessions to talk and plan about the schools.

Drugs, Taxes. Occasionally, during the three Sunday panels, the questions of drugs and school financing were raised, but always the arrow swung back to racism. "There was a private, invitational meeting recently to talk about drugs," commented James Andrews on Panel No. 10A, "and it was snow-white, except for one black police lieutenant."

Mr. Michael did not quite surge off drugs, but he did say he thought that most teenagers outgrew them. "It's the way some kids express their dissatisfaction and sometimes I do think it's serious."

When a middle-aged member of the audience said, well, hey grew up in the depression and had a rough time, but "MY generation didn't resort to alcohol. There was something about it that reminded him sweetly that she had heard they resorted instead to alcohol. There was laughter after that one."

But Ellen Barnett, chosen for the teen panel because she is a newcomer to Princeton High, said "I would be very concerned as a parent if I had a child entering ninth grade at the high school. I have even seen it taken at school. It has to be dealt with."

Ellen added that she was not aware of racial problems at PHS as she had been in a Maryland school she came from.

Economic issues received a place, and Theodore Vial of Panel No. One said he was increased school taxes affected small property-owners or renters and everybody with a fixed income.

The Rev. Mr. Doney said economic issues "take the racial issue out of the hands of the educators and put it in the hands of Princeton's real-estate agents, the banks, Palmer Square, Inc. and the University."

But by and large, economics wasn't the subject people had come to talk about. Toward the end of the evening, Dr. Paul Ramsey, professor of religion at Princeton, quoted for everyone Reinhold Niebuhr's "confession of a tired radical" in which the theologian says that racial prejudice is not uniquely a Nordic sin, and concludes, "there are only approximate solutions to insoluble problems."

Borough Council unanimously passed on Tuesday night its resolution establishing a Human Rights Commission.

"I will do everything possible to insure that it is an effective agency and not just a rubber stamp," stated Mayor Henry S. Patterson.

He warned that a "long period of time will be required to find out how to make it work" might lie ahead, and he said he would make the Borough's five appointments after January 1.

The mayor said the study committee, under its chairman Gordon H. Mack, had tried to set up an organization that wouldn't need much money. The Borough's share, he said, would be in the forthcoming budget.

Township Committee has not yet acted.

TOPICS Of The Town

TAXI

"No" to Limousine, Princeton's taxi-drivers were on the attack and the defense before Borough Council Tuesday night.

Council unanimously turned down Air Brook, Inc., which wanted municipal consent to operate limousines between the Borough and Newark and Rutherford airports. The P.U.C. still has to give or withhold its own approval.

"A-nine." The Borough last year had given New York-New Jersey Airport Limousines the same consent for Kennedy and LaGuardia airports, and Councilman William Walker said the Borough did not intend to have more than one limousine service shuttling along Princeton streets, no matter which airports were at the other end.

Thomas Moore, president of the Princeton Taxi Owners Association, made a speech similar to the one he made last week before Township Committee. "I sound like a broken record" — urging Council to toss out Air Brook's request.

He characterized as "asinine" the Township's granting of municipal consent to Air Brook merely because Lawrence and Plainsboro Townships had already done so.

Bus? Charles Sterling, representing Princeton's taxi-drivers, revealed that Suburban Transit is also before the P.U.C., asking permission to run buses from Princeton into Newark Airport. He said Princeton taxi-drivers would rather see the bus company operate to Newark Airport than another limousine company.

He charged that New York New Jersey Limousine was violating P.U.C. rules: taking passengers door to door, using a station wagon instead of a limousine and not following a regular schedule, but merely "standing," like a taxi service.

Where's My Cab? Then the defense began. "I've heard complaints began Councilman Robert Hendry, "that taxis in Princeton aren't always available."

Mr. Moore said Princeton taxi-drivers have often taken a passenger who had no money to pay. But when Council unanimously voted to keep Air Brook out, Mayor Henry S. Patterson warned Mr. Moore about those complaints.

It was quite pro quo: "That was one of our considerations in turning down Air Brook," the mayor told the taxi men. "Would you see to it, Mr. Moore, that the complaints are minimized or eliminated completely?"

Taxi drivers are licensed by Council, and John C. Croser, 37 William Street, has requested a taxi license. Councilman Charles Cornforth reported.

Mr. Croser charged that Princeton drivers take their taxis "only when the spirit moves them," or else spend all their time in long distance limousine service. His request was referred to the licensing committee.

Zoning Too.

Council held the public hearing on an amendment to the new zoning ordinance increasing building height in the Central Business district from four to five stories.

However, a vote won't be taken until Friday, December 27. Attorney Gordon Griffin ruled that the Planning Board's 3-3 tie vote on the ordinance last week doesn't constitute a "recommendation." Council therefore can't act until 30 days after the referral of the ordinance to the Planning Board. The board was asked to reconsider before Dec. 27.

At the public hearing, Council president of the Chamber of Commerce, wrote a letter endorsing the increased height. He also spoke from the floor as a real estate agent, pointing out that five stories with a 1.5 floor ratio would mean a 22.5 foot building and $5.01 for a six-story unit, with five coming somewhere in between, he stated.

Palmer Square, Inc. says it approves the height increase, not just for its own building plans, but because the increased height "is the best interests of the Borough," and would bring in more rateables, according to Frank Reiche, attorney for the corporation.

Residual land values are $2.58 per square foot for a four-story building and $5.01 for a six-story unit, with five coming somewhere in between, he stated.

Councilman Alan Carrick, who voted "no" as a Planning Board member, challenged the rateables argument. "You could have so much traffic here that business moves out," he warned.

Day Care Needs, Princeton's

Day Care Center needs $1,000 to operate during February and March, between the end of old funds on January 31 and new funding on April 1.

The Borough will confer with the Township and have explore. —Continued on Next Page other sources of money as well. Councilman Walker said. The chief, in the First Baptist Church, cares for 19 children between 2 and 5 on an all day basis.

Fire Chief, Alexander Duthie Jr., 55 Fisher Avenue, will be the 1963 fire chief for Princeton. The volunteer firemen have asked a raise in the chief's annual salary from $125 to $150, and assistant chief, from $11.50 to $50. Fire companies are allowed $2.50 per month per man, an allotment determined in 1947, and they have asked Council for a raise to $5.

It was the last Council meeting for Mr. Walker and Councilman Alfred Sorenson who did not run for reelection. Mayor Patterson estimated that Mr. Walker has given 100 fire and police reports, and Mr. Sorenson 100 engineering reports.

DISCRIMINATION?

PAHR suggests Action. Black people who want to rent or buy a house in Princeton were urged this week by PAHR the Princeton Association for Human Rights—to telephone a PAHR representative if they experience discrimination from owners or real estate agents.

Mrs. Harold Kuhn, PAHR's housing chairman, asked people to call her at 921-7250 or 921-5501 "within five minutes" if they suspected discrimination.

She explained that speed was essential in many cases because, if a black person is told "sorry, the apartment has already been rented," a white person sent by PAHR within 20 minutes to half an hour, will often find the apartment still vacant. If too many days elapse, Mrs. Kuhn pointed out, the apartment may indeed have been rented.

Citing the 1966 New Jersey law, Mrs. Kuhn made these points:

- It is illegal for a real-estate agent to telephone the owner of a house and say, "I am bringing a Negro to see your house."

- It is illegal to ask "Is he Negro?" of anyone who is house hunting for a friend.

- It is illegal to circulate petitions against Negroes in a neighborhood.

- It is illegal to take reprisals against a Negro tenant.

Mrs. Kuhn related the following cases of discrimination in Princeton. This summer, she said, a "Martin Luther King Scholar" came to Princeton University on a two-year fellowship with his wife and two children. He was a math teacher in a southern Negro college.

A Princeton real-estate agent told him on the telephone that an apartment was available; however, when the teacher appeared in person, he was told that it was rented. He is now living in an apartment near Hightstown.

In another incident, a Negro graduate student and his fiancée went to see a Princeton apartment they were told was for rent. They found it had already been rented.

The student immediately went to PAHR, and the organization sent a white representative who was told she could rent the apartment. As a result, the owner was legally obliged to rent the apartment to the black student, and he and his wife are now living there.

Mrs. Kuhn also spoke of a

Princeton neighborhood where one property-owner was opposed to selling to a Negro family. Neighbors were distressed at the owner's attitude, but did not know where to turn. In a similar situation, Mrs. Kuhn suggests residents call and ask her to provide the statistics PAHR has, showing that property values do not decline, and legal information to encourage the Negro buyer.

Mrs. Kuhn said she and PAHR would like to see a store-front, in Princeton and all New Jersey communities, where people could drop in easily and discuss their complaints with volunteers who could then refer them to professionals in the state's Division of Civil Rights.

CAN CHURCH BUILD?

Proposal tabled. The Church of Christ's plans to construct a two-story church and a 70-car parking lot on River Road near the Kingston bridge, were tabled by the Township Planning Board Monday night.

The board wants to confer with the Township Open Space Commission to see whether the Commission or the state is proceeding with plans for a park in that flood-prone area along the Millstone.

The church's land, purchased from Mrs. Maud Gilmer, is now in the Township's Engineering Research zone. The church will go before the Zoning Board next Thursday seeking a variance from the 150-foot setback required in that zone.

However, if the Township amends its zoning law and changes the area to a residential zone, the setback requirement will be much less. Everybody wants this because it would move the church building that much farther away from the river and the flood plain.

The church plans to ask the zoners for a 116-foot setback. The Planning Board advised them to seek 70 feet instead.

Mrs. William Pierce, who lives in the mill near the bridge, expressed concern Monday night about the landfill required and its possible effect on flood waters. Mrs. Roland MacLeod, speaking for the Princeton-Kingston Homeowners Association, said her group opposed construction of the church because it would interfere with the flood plain and could prevent establishment of a park.

The Princeton Shopping Center has recalled that the Burger's lease specifies that no building shall be built closer than 100 feet to the shore.

Proposals for a new A & P would bring the new store within that 100-foot limit, so the Shopping Center's owner, George Warncke, has withdrawn his plans for the time being. He told the Planning Board he would be in touch with the Township later.

Plans to create five lots just off the Princeton-Kingston Road will be presented formally to the Planning Board. The proposal was classified as a major subdivision Monday night.

The subdivision would create a new intersection with the Princeton-Kingston Road 140 feet east of Locust Lane, between Locust and Roper Road.

THE 1.95 COURT FIGHT: Will Hopewell Answer The Bell? Beaten in another round of its battle to change the

the superhighway sheer through much of its residential and farm acreage.

Many township residents strongly opposed to the present route want the battle carried on until every appeal has been exhausted, on the chance, however slight it may be, that a reversal may be won somewhere along the line. Fighting what almost inevitable seems to be a losing battle and the costs involved are cited as reasons for giving up.

Last August Commitman Donald H. Woodward stated he thought it might be wiser for the township to start bargaining to get the most out of the highway, such as the best location for interchanges. Township Committee is expected to take up the matter at its meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday and may reach a decision on its future course of action.

In a meeting last Tuesday, at which the refusal of the State Supreme Court to hear the appeal was finally disclosed, after a seven-week delay in notification, township attorney Edward Meredith said the cost to the township of the appeal was $9,000.

Committee had voted 4 to 1 last August to appeal the ruling of Superior Court, which held that the present alignment of the route should not be changed. The Supreme Court handed down its action on October 15, 1958, but apparently through clerical error, no notification of the decision was made to the township, involved until last week.

New Possibilities. Mr. Mercdih felt Hopewell should first sound out the other two municipalities, Franklin and Piscataway, which have joined in the suit, before taking further action. He thought that an appeal to the Federal Bureau of Roads stressing the new possibilities stemming from the construction of the Burlington-Bristol Bridge across the Delaware, might be the most effective action. Using part of the proposed 1295, a shorter route could be developed over to the Turnpike.

The present alignment will take several hundred acres of land off the Hopewell tax maps. It enters the township above Scudder Falls Road, heads around in the east of Pennington Borough, crosses Elm Ridge Road near its intersection with the Pennington-Hockley Hill Road, cuts through Mr. Roek and leaves the township at Province Line road near the Beden's Brook area. Several interchanges are also planned within the township's borders.

Hopewell would like the original alignment restored, which had the route running through much of West Windsor and East Windsor townships between the Penn Central rail road tracks and the New Jersey Turnpike, and connecting it with the Turnpike at exit 1A.

As it now stands 1.95 will intersect with the Turnpike at a new interchange (B3), planned for the Edison-Metuchen area.

Peter J. McCrohan reported that it appears nothing was taken.

On Thursday, John L. McGoldrick called police to report that his third floor apartment at 40 Witherspoon Street had been entered.

Mr. McGoldrick said that a jewelry box containing three of his wife's rings was missing and some table silver. He valued the rings at approximately $1,000 each. His wife was away at the time of the theft.

Police said they believe entry was made by slipping the lock to the apartment door.

In the Township, the home of Mrs. Luci Toot entered between 9 and 7 p.m. last Wednesday and ransacked.

Detective Samuel Bianco reported that a few pieces of inexpensive jewelry and about $25 cash was taken. He said entry was gained by prying open a rear door.

Pd. David Feltz made the initial investigation.

had assaulted him on November 27 in the club's kitchen.

Coffey, in turn, had filed counter assault charges against Mr. Clunk and Maurice Silverman, 40 Prospect Avenue, of the University's food service department, who was in the kitchen at the time. Judge Tams dismissed both of Coffey's charges.

Theodore J. Priester, 18, of South Dot Hall, Princeton University, was given preliminary hearing on a charge of possession of narcotics and was held in $1,000 bail for action by a grand jury. He was arrested two weeks ago in front of the Princeton Post Office by members of the Borough Police, the State Police Narcotics Bureau and the U. S. Postal Department.

Also held for grand jury action was William C. Barr, 19, of Lahaska, Pa., who was arrested last month on the grounds of Princeton High School following disturbances there. He had been charged by Ptl. John J. Bellow, Borough juvenile officer, with possession of fireworks and possession of narcotics.

Belton Cole, 27, of Philadelphia, was fined $35 for using loud and indecent language on the grounds of Princeton High School. Arrested Thursday by Sgt. Theodore Lewis, he pleaded guilty.

Tony Brown, 18, of Trenton, faced three charges. He pleaded guilty to trespassing at Princeton High School and also at the University and was given a one-day jail sentence for each offense. A third charge, failure to give a good account of himself, to which he pleaded not guilty, was dismissed.

In traffic court, William R. Haldane Jr., 19, 458 Ewing Street, and Mrs. Elizabeth S. Carey, 245 Library Place, were fined $25 and $15 respectively for careless driving.

Speeding cost Raymond Pinelli, 20, Opossum Road, Skillman, $24, while Taylor A. Marzow, Jr., 25, 121 Birch Avenue, paid $15, late inspection.

In Township Court last week, Judge Glen B. Miller Jr. fined Robert C. Horsford, 49, Kingston Terrace, $15 for following too closely.

Stanley C. Wells, 448 Walnut Lane, paid $15 for operating an unregistered car.

Do you wish Christmas meant more to you?

There are some who think that the Christmas story no longer has any meaning. But the coming of the Christ is not just an isolated event that took place 2,000 years ago. For many, the joy and the inspiration of the Christmas come daily to help and to heal.

If you would like to know what Christmas can really mean to you, you will find some very good answers in the Christian Science Reading Room.

There you may read about the birth and the life of Jesus in the Bible. And there you may find a book that illumines his teachings and shows you how they can inspire and uplift you today. It is called "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Want you come in and spend a few minutes of quiet study and prayer?

CYCLIST STUJURED
On Prospect Avenue, A 24-year-old student was injured Thursday when his bike ran into a car which was entering a drive at 175 Prospect Avenue.

The victim, Pedro Garza, 219-A King Street, was transported by the driver to Princeton Hospital where he received 10 sutures to close two lacerations on the top and rear of his head. Mr. Garza also received contusions and abrasions. He was treated and released.

Seymour Goodheart, 58, 175 Prospect Avenue, told police he was turning into his drive and was almost in when he first saw the cyclist. He stopped and the bike rammed the car's right front fender, flipping Mr. Garza in the air. His head struck the curb and his left leg hit the car fender.

Ptl. James Adams noted his report that a public service light pole, which would have helped illuminate the area, was down.

"We'll Clear the Track as We Go Back"

Apparently taking the words of one of Princeton University's most popular football songs to heart, members of the Students for a Democratic Society will be "going back to Nassau Hall" on Friday, but it won't be to sing praises of their alma mater.

Scheduling a return engagement of its rally held last May, SDS will gather at 2:30 p.m. on the steps of the building to protest against the presence of ROTC on campus. SDS member Douglas P. Seston, class of 1969, said the purpose of the rally is "to mobilize campus sentiment against ROTC." The left-wing group has demanded an immediate end to all ROTC programs at Princeton, with the University responsible for giving its own financial aid to all students currently on ROTC scholarships.

Joining Princeton SDS speakers on the platform will be SDS leaders from Columbia, spokesmen for the Black Panthers and Maurice Gaston, a Cuban citizen, who will expound on "U.S. Imperialism in Latin America."

In its first visit to Nassau Hall, SDS demanded, with some success, a greater student-faculty voice in the decision making process of the University, an end to ties with the Institute for Defense Analysis, abolition of partial hours and a revision of the college's draft policy.

Pt. Agins ticketed Mr. Good heart for careless driving. Mr. Garza was issued a summons for riding a bike with inoperable lights. The incident took place at 5 p.m. near the intersection of Princeton Avenue.

Three Hurt in Township.
Three persons were injured in accidents in the Township, which occurred during last Wednesday's heavy rain.

Edwin S. Purcell, 17, a student at Princeton Day School, was treated at Princeton Hospital for a very serious concussion after his car went out of control and hit a tree on Pretty Brook Road. He was later transferred to Helen Fuld Hospital in Trenton.

The investigating officer, Ptl. David Potts, reported that Purcell's 1968 sedan ran off the road near the entrance of the Pretty Brook Tennis Club and struck a tree. The entire front end of his car was damaged. Ptl. Potts added that the victim was unable to give any account of the mishap because of a loss of memory which he attributed to his concussion. The accident took place at 3:35 p.m.

Car Skids, Total Loss. At 1:33 p.m., John W. O'Dea, 17, 141 Red Hill Road went into a skid on Hernton Road some 90 feet north of River Road and slammed into a tree. He received three broken teeth and was treated for lacerations of the mouth at Princeton Hospital and released. His 1961 car was adjudged a total loss by the police.

Ptl. Robert Heacock reported

Flu Cases Mount in Princeton

Fever, aches, dry cough, sore throat? So far in Princeton, there has been no specific confirmation of Hong Kong flu, according to Dr. Willard Dalrymple, who runs the Princeton University infirmary, but doesn't tell that to your neighbor who has a temperature of 102.

A Princeton physician in private practice says all doctors here are swamped with an "inordinate number" of flu calls. He adds that, without actual virology studies, you can't tell one flu from another.

Hong Kong flu has been definitely identified as close as Philadelphia, Dr. Dalrymple reports. Serum samples from undergraduates in the acute phase of flu were taken on November 29 by the State Division of Laboratories, but Dr. Dalrymple has no report yet, identifying the kind of flu.

One doctor compared an epidemic to the weather — "it can blow in with a 'front' and then leave," was his analogy.

Dr. Dalrymple says the University infirmary began filling up just before Thanksgiving. He thinks the epidemic may take about six weeks to go through the community. The peak is just about here, he calculates. "If you haven't caught it by January 15 — you probably won't get it at all."

that after O'Dea's car went into a skid, it crossed over to the opposite lane, ran off the road and up an embankment. It just missed striking a pole before hitting the tree. He made no charges.

Earlier, at 3:25 p.m., Susan L. Walton, 18, of Westfield, sustained cuts and bruises after she was involved in a two-car crash at the intersection of Bayard Lane and Route 206.

Both she and the other driver, Samuel Kind, 39, of Yardley, Pa., told police that each thought the other was going to stop. Ptl. Dilindo Carnevale is sued on summonses.

TWO PURSES STOLEN
From Real Estate Office.
Two purses belonging to seretaries at the Edmund D. Cook real estate and insurance offices at 190 Nassau Street were stolen last week by a sneak thief.

Mrs. Mary Tavarone of Kendall Park called Borough police to report that her brown leather purse had been removed from her desk. In it, she said, were $10 cash and a social security check for $107. The purse was found empty the following day in a trash can behind the Thorne Pharmacy and returned to Mrs. Tavarone by police.

On Thursday, Mr. Cook called police to report that a black alligator purse had been taken from a front desk between 9:45 and 10:15 a.m. The victim, Mrs. Leslie Hillier

A WILD PURCHASE!

A furniture maker had been in one day when I was out to show me drums he makes. I told you, my lovely associate, I couldn't be less interested. Friday he was back and I was interested. Drums? Yes - modeled after Mexican slit drums of phillipine mahogany producing 2 tones or 3 or 4, depending on your use of the drum sticks. Two sizes, beautifully finished - Just two lovely rectangular boxes producing gamelon-like sounds - intrigued? Come in and see them.

Had a nice surprise this week - littala delivered my re-order in one day, so I've got lots in stock and can get special orders in 36 to 48 hours. Gorgeous glass, beautiful designs, not cheap, but not over-priced.

Conference Speakers Find Plenty of Racism, No Rapid Social Change in Town or Gown

"The black community in Princeton is no better off now than it was in 1958, or even in 1948", according to James Floyd, recently-elected Township committeeman and the first Negro to hold municipal office in Princeton.

Mr. Floyd, spoke at Princeton University before a predominantly white audience attending the first part of a two-day conference on "Race and Rapid Social Change at Princeton". The speeches and subsequent seminars were sponsored by the Association of Black Collegians (ABC), Whig-Clio, the Princeton debating society, and informed Citizens advocating Action.

Mr. Floyd told more than 200 listeners in McCormick Hall that there is a "new black system of evaluation". "Now we don't ask, 'Are things getting better?'", he explained, "but we ask, 'Do we still have less equality than white people?'".

"Let's start at full equality and justice, not work up to it", he said. Mr. Floyd outlined serious problems with the educational system in Princeton.

WASP Point of View. "I think the school system is geared to the wrong culture."

James A. Floyd

ture", the future Township committeeman noted in reference to the "white, Anglo-Saxon Protestant" point of view expressed by Princeton teachers. "Every black child knows he's different, and some believe they're inferior."

Mr. Floyd suggested that the university make its intellectual resources available to townspeople and government. "The question before American universities now is whether to be a think tank, period, or to be a think tank which presents practical solutions for society's problems", he said.

Mr. Floyd recommended that universities offer leaves of absence with pay for professors willing to participate in projects and remedial work in black communities. "In the Princeton school system, like many others, many teachers are not qualified and some do irreparable harm to their students".

Housing Bias. Black inequality also exists in housing in the Princeton community, according to Mr. Floyd. He spoke of an incident last summer when a Negro resident tried to rent an apartment in the Princeton area, but was refused because of his race.

"This was not done over the telephone", the committeeman remarked. "It was a face-to-face confrontation. Housing is still a source of tension in this community. The black says it's less than equal".

Concluding, Mr. Floyd said that next year's seminar should be held downtown in the black community, not on the Princeton campus.

"We have finally gotten to the point where whites are no longer relating to blacks", he remarked. "Unequivocally, there is not rapid social change at Princeton".

Rod Hamilton, a Princeton University senior and co-ordinator of ABC, followed with a five-minute talk on "Racial Problems on the University Campus".

In his general remarks, Mr. Hamilton noted that letters in the Alumni Weekly clearly show that Princeton wants to remain a bastion of white racism".

"Dirt in Nassau Hall." "I would suggest that we should not come here to find answers to the problems", the student said. "They are all around you. You don't have to go to New York or wait to fight racism. There's dirt in the streets here, dirt in Nassau Hall."

The purpose of the conference, chaired by Princeton's Dean of Students Neil L. Rudenstine, was to determine "what in the institutional structures of the university, the town, and the interplay between the two create an atmosphere conducive to conflict", according to a statement by the conference organizers.

The attrition rate of those participating in the conference was high—about 50%—and Saturday's program was canceled in favor of informal discussions. However, Dean Rudenstine revealed significant attitudes on both sides: whites' insensitivity to blacks' problems, and blacks' lack of confidence in whites. He thought it also provided added insight into the new reality of race relations.

GARDEN CLUB TO OPEN
Christmas French Market. The second annual Christmas French Market, sponsored by the Garden Club of Princeton, will be held from 9 to 3, Tuesday at the corner of Nassau Street and University Place. Items on sale at the market will include Christmas wreaths, homemade cookies, bread and candies. This year's specialties are jigsaw puzzles, paperweights and pin cushions. All proceeds will be used to defray expenses for creating the new "vest-pocket" park where the markets are held. Mrs. Ruth Aall and Mrs. Frank Taplin are co-chairmen of the event.

"VOICE FROM HOME"
Recording Dates Set. Families can send a personal holiday message to a son or daughter in the military service overseas through the "Voice From Home," a seven-minute taped message recorded free at the headquarters of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross. The final recording date is Sunday, noon-5 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross (924-2404). The recorded message is mailed by the Chapter, which will also take a Polaroid snapshot of the recording group, if the family wishes.

Mrs. Charles Fran R. Jr., chairman of the "Voice From Home" program recounts last year's recordings. Mrs. William K. Selden, who sent a taped message to her son reported "He said it was just great to have the tape and it does mean a lot to all servicemen to hear a voice from home, particularly at Christmastime."
Dr. Malcolm Dressner, a lieutenant commander in Vietnam last year, says "When I was overseas in Vietnam, the tape I received from my family via the Red Cross helped me feel closer to home. And this experience was duplicated by the other men who received taped messages from their families."
According to Mrs. Clark McPhail, who is assisting with the program, all Red Cross recreational by the Chapter and military hospitals overseas have tape recorders available. Recipients of the "talking letters" may send return messages by erasing the tape and recording their reply. Play-back facilities are available at the Princeton Chapter headquarters, where families may listen in privacy to a return message from their servicemen.

"Why are they moving him up so fast?"

Take another look at the man who is moving ahead of the parade in your company. When the conference logs down in opposing views, isn't he the one who comes up with the hard facts that lead to sound decisions? When the chief asks a tough question, isn't it the same fellow who has the wanted information at his fingertips?

Funny thing, though. That "buzzer man" is not always the heavyweight with the college degrees or the most brilliant mind. Often he appears to be just an average fellow—but he has an overflowing fund of valuable information. How does he get it?

The Secret of Knowing More

There's only one way—by READING more than anyone else. More books, newspapers, magazines, reports. By digesting more information with better comprehension—and in less time. But how?

As one of the world's leaders in the field of education, Crowell Collier and Macmillan looked for the most effective method of rapid reading that would give business and professional men a method of absorbing vast amounts of information. We went into a leading University whose Reading Laboratory was a center for research in rapid reading and found a method that actually accelerated our demanding requirements.

Unique Scientific Method

CCM RAPID READING PROGRAM does not use "mnemonics." It breaks through

EVENING CLASSES WILL START IN PRINCETON THIS MONTH FREE DEMONSTRATION

Demonstrations of the CCM Rapid Reading Program will be held at Princeton at the Princeton Inn, 8:00 P.M., Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, December 16, 17, 18. Everyone

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

The Crowell Collier Institute will refund the tuition to any student who fails to triple his reading efficiency (in multiple of speed and comprehension) during the course as measured by the standard tests. This guarantee is valid provided the student attends each morning and practices at least one hour at home each day as directed by his instructor.

CCM: RAPID READING PROGRAM is conducted by

of Princeton University Chapel, the chaplains at Princeton University, Westminster Choir College and Princeton Hospital.

Further, each chaplain would designate two students from his denomination to serve.

Task Forces. The Interfaith Council would be composed of task forces in the following areas of concern:

Ecumenical Education and worship: providing a forum for interchange of ideas and opportunities for increased understanding among members of the various communions. Study programs across denominational lines and interfaith worship services.

Education of children and youth: initiate and implement interfaith programs of education and action, ranging up through high school age.

Community Action: responsible for instituting an interfaith approach to the social problems in the Princeton area. Includes study, stimulation of study and action in the various churches, action in the name of the Interfaith Council, and cooperative ventures with other concerned groups in the community.

Pastoral Concerns: joint ventures, such as coordinated support of the hospital chaplaincy program, interfaith counseling and referral service for Princeton residents.

The proposal calls for co-chairmen, secretary and treasury elected from the membership, and an executive committee composed of officers of the Interfaith Council, the task force chairmen, two members at large, the president of the Church Women United and the president of the Pastors' Association.

The Interfaith Council would meet twice a year, the executive committee on a monthly basis.

Funds. The proposal calls for "strong support from all congregations." The main financial support on the university campus and at leading contributions from each participating congregation proper, "donate to its members." The amount would be determined at the April meeting when the budget is considered for the following year.

PCUC Denial. The establishment of the Interfaith Council would appear to conclude the activities of the Princeton Christian Unity Committee, an ecumenical gadfly group of Protestants and Roman Catholics which began Princeton interdenominational activities in 1933 in a series of inquiry meetings held in the various churches.

The proposed Interfaith Council adds a dimension that the PCUC has not been able to give, namely, it's Christian unity orientation excluded the Jewish faith.

The PCUC, a lay group until recently, has been largely self-supporting, with activities restricted due to a chronic lack of funds. Over the years, it has sponsored, with pastoral assistance, the 1965 neighbor studies on Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, which drew some 338 participants from the various churches; explored the scriptures of the churches, with pastoral explanations and discussions; an Epiphany study for six weeks on the Book of Acts; Christian leadership training workshops; a week of prayer for Christian unity, rotating each night from church to church; an interdenominational church school; a summer workshop series on "Poverty and Plenty," and other programs. Chairman have included Miss Natalie Vaughan of Trinity Church, George J. Kelly of St. Paul's, Jerry Van Sant of Calvary Baptist, and Dr. Arlo Duba of Westminster Choir College.

The increased scope of activities of the proposed Interfaith Council infers the administrative needs of a headquarters, secretarial assistance and an executive director.

OPEN HOUSE SET

For Photo Exhibit. Witherpoon Street Presbyterian Church will hold an open house this Sunday from 2:15 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. to inaugurate a month-long exhibit of Ulli Steltzer's compassionate studies of poverty among the migrant workers and in southern Negro communities. The exhibit will be open mornings throughout December.

The church is accepting donations for the communities Mrs. Steltzer visited, who are also the beneficiaries of the sale of the Negro artisans and child Christmas cards on display, based upon a Steltzer photo.

BULLETIN NOTES

Newly-elected elders and deacons will be installed at the 10:30 a.m. service this Sunday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The sermon to be given by the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton is titled, "Do You Dispute the Church?"

A quiet morning is scheduled by the ECW of All Saints' Chapel next Wednesday, December 18, beginning with holy communion at 8:30. The meditations will be held at 10:05, 11 and 11:45 a.m., with recess periods in order that women may come at the time most convenient. There will be a Christmas wrapped box lunch exchange (sandwich and dessert); coffee is provided. Baby sitters, if necessary, may be made by calling Mrs. Grace Bonner, 924-0528.

Princeton Pastors' Association will meet this Thursday to consider nominations for president. Harold Thomas, Luther Krieffel and James White more comprise the nominating committee. The PPA will also consider the Interfaith Council proposal.

The Rev. Robert L. Cope will give a sermon at 9 and 11 this Sunday, titled "A Celebration of Channukah," in the Princeton Unitarian Church.

"The Christian Remnant" is the title of the sermon by the Rev. Dr. Leon Gibson in Princeton United Methodist Church at 11 this Sunday.

A nursery school will be established in Calvary Baptist Church, Hopewell, to meet a community need for another school. Approved by the diocese on November 11, the school project has been explored by the church's commission on education.

Big Thanks from Midgets
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Princeton Midget Football League, at the end of its fourth season, would like very much to thank those people in the Princeton Community who have supported this activity during this and preceding years.

The officers and staff of the League plus 160 boys in Princeton are most grateful to the members of the First Aid Squad who were in attendance at all our nine different games. In addition, we would like to recognize the contribution and aid of Drs. Silverman, Blumman and Atkin who contributed regularly not only to the direction of the program but who also were in attendance at all League games.

The previously unpublicized contributions of the Recreation Board—who make available practice fields at Community Park—and the Board of Education who provides us with the use of the High School Athletic Field for our Senior Division games on Sunday afternoons are also greatly appreciated by the League.

To the many parents, and friends of the League who supported us through their attendance at our games, we say thank you.

We are also most appreciative of the publicity given us by the press each week in reporting our games and the activities of the boys.

S. C. REYNOLDS, JR.
President

will make every effort, based on space limitations, to publish up to 500 words of any letter on a subject directly affecting the Princeton area. Because of the volume of news which must be covered at the community level, letters on topics of a national or international nature cannot be considered.

Letters to Mailbox should be typewritten if possible, double-spaced, and must be signed for publication. Those received later than Monday afternoon may be held for use the following week.

many cases both the marines of two corps, stationed near Da Nang in Vietnam will have a brighter Christmas.

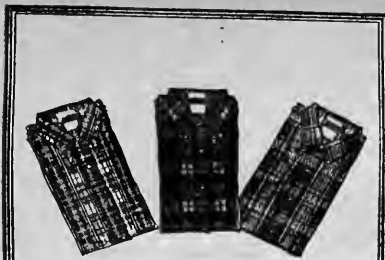

This is the vision of Mrs. Charles Caldwell, and for this she returned to Vietnam. Those who had a part in the project, which was given the space in which to work by Trinity Church feel deeply grateful for the opportunity to help those men who are serving their country in Vietnam.

Many in the area responded and the result of their generosity and hard work was fantastic. Nearly $1,940 was donated. This aided for the postage and for the purchase of the 14,961 individually-wrapped gifts which are on their way.

While those who helped wish no thanks, surely for them Christmas will be more meaningful because of what they did, for they know that Princeton has not let Mrs. Caldwell, nor the marines down.

After all bills were paid, a check for $175 was sent to Mrs. Caldwell.

A Center hall

A very large living room and just feeling comfortable

Four master bedrooms, paneled study with fireplace, and large family lounge (19 x 30)

A very fine listing at "100 plus"

HOW ABOUT A BARN OF A HOUSE — Way out on a beautiful country road (actually a fast trip on good paved highway) you will find this Seven bedroom house with 21 x 36 foot living area, 27 foot kitchen, and 8 beautiful acres of land (also a 2 bedroom apartment with large living room and kitchen — good for good students, caretaker or family) Have a little fun at $80,000

VALUE BEYOND ALL EXPECTATIONS — Extremely well planned four-bedroom "tri-level" house done in antique brick and white shingle with crisp black shutters. Large entrance hall opens to big family room, "study-bedroom", and powder room laundry — then up a few steps to cathedral living room, large dining room, ultra-modern kitchen overlooking garden. Three very good big bedrooms and two full baths, plus large two-car garage complete the picture of this Cranbury house (that would cost thousands more in Princeton). Only $33,000

BEAT RISING COSTS — Open a home office — Nice four bedroom house + a wing of well-arranged offices, now occupied by a Doctor. Excellent for Pediatrician because of hoards of children in the neighborhood, also fine for dress making or any home industry. Think of the rent and tax deductions you can pocket and look at the fine listing at $41,500

News Of The THEATRES

"A DIFFERENT KICK"

From Triangle. What the publicity man himself refers to as the "slaid Triangle formula of the past," has been tossed into the wings, and this year's Triangle Club show moves to "A Different Kick."

Opening night is this Thursday at 8:30 at McCarter, with performances again on Friday and Saturday evenings and a Saturday matinee at 2:30.

A girl shows up this year for the first time in any Triangle show. She is Sue Jean Lee, one of the 15 undergraduate women in Princeton University's Critical Languages program. She came to Princeton to study Chinese and found herself breaking tradition as well.

"I couldn't believe it when people told me that some undergraduates and alumni were against having a girl in Triangle," Miss Lee said. "It all seems so natural."

The format of "A Different Kick" is the format of the revue. Topical issues — pol. George Wallace, the Establishment — a score featuring hard rock, rhythm and blues and jazz and a spare set with room for multi-media built in, all combine to "tell it like it is."

TEACHERS! IMPROVISE!
 New Course Offered. A course in improvisation designed especially for teachers will be given this winter by Mrs. Betty Liveright, Director of Development at McCarter Theatre.

Classes will be held at McCarter on Saturday mornings from 10 to noon, starting January 11 and running through April 3. No experience in the theatre is necessary. Teachers who wish to enroll should write to Mrs. Liveright and enclose the $25 fee.

The theatre games used in this course were originally devised to help actors, however, they have also proved effective with children in the classroom and they have been used profitably by psychologists in clinical situations.

The games are designed to free people from constraint, and they are, in Mrs. Liveright's words, "fun as games should be." There will be a minimum of lecturing and a maximum of participation.

...AND SUGARPLUMS, TOO

In "Nutcracker," Toy soldiers, rats, mice, parents and children, all will be in the annual Christmas appearance. Tchaikovsky's well loved ballet, in its entirety, will be given three times: Friday, December 20 at 8:30; Saturday, December 21 at 2:30 and again Sunday December 22 at 3 p.m.

The Princeton Ballet Society and McCarter join forces each year to give the ballet to Princeton as a Christmas gift. Dancing and performing in the Christmas classic will be 50 dancers and actors, including 50 members of the Princeton Regional Ballet plus 40 dancers and actors from all over the Princeton area.

Isobel Johnson and Patricia Sweeney will share the part of the Snowflake Queen and Victor Vargas will be the snowflake Prince, Michael Mao will be the Rat King, vanquished by the Snowflake Prince. Nutcracker (Daniel Rubin) after a fierce battle, Sharrin Terry will be the young heroine Clara and Joseph Chinesse will be her Prince.

capable of handling the work.
To portray adequately the characters in "Journey" requires actors of great depth and skill. To keep the play from becoming one long recitation, the director must look for many high points and lead his cast to the realization of each. Not only must he map the path to the play's pinnacle, but he must find a variety of ways to get there.
The argument of "Long Day's Journey" is repeated over and over again, but each statement must have the feeling of
"first time." It is an awesome task, but each statement is wisely satisfying.

It is often the case that audi-ence's note the setting and lighting of a show only when it is tastefully overdone or distractingly meagre. Richard Williams' design for Long Day's Journey cannot be overlooked — but not because it commands either of the above sins.

Both lighting and set design helped to form an interesting framework for the drama of the Tyrone family. It is a design which moves with the play. Without becoming gamey or obtrusive, Mr. Williams' setting perfectly complements the emotional tone of each scene while offering moments of visual excitement. He presents the audience with an other high point in a production marked by many moments.

Jon Lorrain's "Edmund" is very interesting. He approaches the role in a very physical manner, not relying on voice and gesture to develop the character. He, instead, depicts the turbulence in Edmund by translating the psychological dilemma into physical terms.
The tight shoulders and compressed lips working in opposition to the weekly slouching body say much more than the most skillful vocal gymnastics.
Lorrain's portrayal is well complemented by the open breediness of Geoff Peterson's
"Jamie." Mr. Petersen has a strong sense of the stage and can easily dominate any scene he chooses to. Fortunately, however, he also has a sense of proportion and uses his skill with perfect taste.

The role of "Cathlene" has always puzzled this reviewer.
It is almost impossible to see the character as anything

other than a theatrical cliché.
One objects to such an undeveloped figure among so many others. Sheila Shelleff, however, makes the most of this meagre role and delivers a brilliant comic portrayal of the lippy servant.

To watch William Hookins is a real treat. He is a highly competent actor and poses a magnificent voice, a fact that becomes most apparent in the last act when he begins to show some of its variety. In the early acts he tends to concentrate on his biggest only, which definitely limits the impact of the character and puts strain on these working with him. This aside, however, Mr.
Hookins is to be congratulated on the depth of his characterization.

Scotty Bloch must always perform at Murray Theatre.
She must be where her very expressive face can be seen.
In this role, she works very small, often creating a whole transition with a slight movement of the eyebrow or the set of her mouth.

This is not to imply that Mrs.
Bloch neglects any part of herself in her portrayal of "Mary Tyrone," but merely that the intimacy of Murray permits the audience to experience this fine actress' work on a very personal level.
Her "Mary" is young and girlish, vituperative and vicious, pathetic and wholly beautiful.

That there are so many fine moments in this production is definitely credit to the director. Mr. Townley, however, has presented his actors with several problems. O'Neill's play is more than three hours of talk — often brilliant and always interesting — but it is still talk.

This being the case, a director must look for movement that is dramatically valid. The prominence of the table (stage center) limits the amount and kind of movement possible, but the stage must be a fluid composition of changing values created by motion. Too much of the action of this production is non-action. The actors seem rooted to their chairs. One negative among so many positives.

Earlier in this review some high points were mentioned. Scotty Blech's brilliant second act is one of these outstanding moments, and Jon Lorrain makes a similar contribution with his "Baudelaire speech" in act three. One must stop here, however, in order not to sound like someone preparing a shopping list.

Anyway, Intime's Long Days Journey gives the profit to the ticket purchaser. The play continues this weekend.

Hot Millions (now playing) is a witty, clever film, with general appeal. It's mostly a chain of chuckles.

Out of the intricate plot of embezzlement emerge two very sympathetic people. Peter Ustinov and Maggie Smith, playing the roles of lonely people whose employer-employee relationship status progresses to Mr. and Mrs., marked more by devotion than love. As his hilariously inept but sincere secretary, and then as wife, Miss Smith very quietly steals every scene she appears in.

The ingenious story has Ustinov, fresh out of prison where he's served time for embezzlement, reasoning that the successful modern embezzler must outfit a computer, a device that beat him at the game the first time. He sets to work, but it takes a chair-woman in search of a place to heat her tea to find out how to outwit the computer's security set-up. She bangs her nail against the side, and that does it.

Karl Malden and Bob Newhart round out the top drawer cast, with Malden doing an outstanding job as the big business chief. The film should appeal to all age brackets, and it's now that Ma and Pa can take the kids to see.

GARDEN

Charlie Bubbles (now playing). Albert Finney is Charlie, a successful writer who has reached the plateau of boredom. He pub crawls, monitors the servants in his antiseptic home and goes through the motions of lovemaking with his secretary, played by Liza Minnelli.

Even a visit to his divorced wife and a trip to a football match with his son leave him bored. When he spies a gigantic balloon outside the window of his ex-wife's farmhouse, he grabs it.

As an actor, Finney, who also directed the film, suggests the ennui of the hero so effectively that the viewer gets bored, too. Miss Minnelli gets to show some girlish enthusiasm now and then, which is

All Bottled Up
If collecting early American bottles is a little rich for your blood, you can start a contemporary collection with potential value.
In limited "editions" from the J. W. Dant company is the Americana series of bottles, each decorated with a full color lithograph commemorating American history. The current issue depicts the Boston tea party.
You'll find these in the antique shops some day.
You might give this to your husband for Yuletide cheer. For it contains Kentucky's most famous bourbon, 8 years old and 86-proof. ($6.66/fifth)

Another Americana series features the great days of the American west. "Volunteers" III in the series of 8 on the market now, and the scene is a mounted Indian chasing buffalo. Inside is more Yule cheer, Jim Beam's Kentucky bourbon. ($5.75/fifth) You can order glasses with matching painting. At Claridge Wine & Liquor.

individual items that make an unusual tree.

Ambleside will have cut blue spruce trees for you, in addition to the scotch pine and holism. Because they bought a great many spruce, the tips of the trees were sent along by the supplier and Mrs. Scudder will show you what lovely table-top trees you can make from the tips. They are all most perfectly shaped and a bout two feet tall.

You'll find wreaths of greens, ready for you to trim or the nursery will trim them for you. Browse through the baskets of trim — such as velvet or translucent grapes, cherries, peaches, or pine cones. A delicate wreath of greens is about $5 to $7. Or you may select one of the pine tree wreaths that are so nice.

From Denmark, Ambleside has received quaint Christmas candles, lanterns, tiny birdhouses with the occupant peering out, open baskets and even small candle holders for tiny candles... all for your tree.
($6 to $12.50)

You'll also see delicate ornaments of straw — a star, for instance, or a skier — and candles. The night of the perch on the boughs. They are all child charming and you'll family will love them.

Your blazing fireplace will become a real conversation when you add the color powders from Obal Garden Market, lower Alexander Street.
The powder in the hinch-covered tube will also destroy soot for you.

Or as a small gift for your hostess, the fire cones at Obal.
They are so brightly boxed that they only need a ribbon for trim. ($1.50)

And Obal has the new Lumber Jacks fireplace log that will burn nicely for two or three hours. (98c)

The tallest Christmas tree on Route 918, east of Lambertville will mark Cunningham's Nurseries for you, and here you'll find live and cut trees, even one that is an impressive two stories tall. Someone from Princeton bought one of the latter last year, because he had a two-story foyer.

Cunningham also has potted plants — poinsettias, cyclamen and red azaleas — which they will deliver, if you wish.

We found here laurel and pine rope for draping your banister or fireplace; fancy, shiny Oregon holly that is so marvelous for decorating indoors, an wreaths of greens, some trimmed, others plain,
waiting for you to add your own touch.

Christmas trim, such as a large ball of artificial mistletoe complete with red velvet ribbon ($1.75), decorated velvet balls, and charming, child-size music boxes with little figures — all at Cunningham's.

belly dress — but IS is dis-cussive. For instance, a heavy orange silk skirt grazing the floor, and a sleeveless, separable top that ties to the skirt at the center front. You wear a gold chain belt just below your bare midriff. Elle also carries this in black sequins.
($65-$70)

If your mood is sultry, Elle has the Harlow look in cling-just about backless and with a

Marion Kops also has designed a "pageant dress" wear when you watch the knights from your pavilion. It is an extremely striking crepe the color of cream, with a deep collar in rose that forms a yoke, stitched in gold thread. ($45)

Mrs. Alonzo firmly believes that "the look of the leg" makes your dress come alive, and she offers her assistance in helping you choose the stockings—striped, metallic, etc.—to go with the dresses.

Piccadilly, another marvelously youthful shop (on Nassau near Moore) has some chic skirts. Choose a grey velvet with a scalloped hem, lined in bright pink to match the waistband ($36.); or a wrap-around blue and white plaid, fringed down the front edge ($20).

And fringe again on a long, blanketed hostess skirt in warm wool for drafty floors; or a bell-shaped skirted, in calico print to go with your Early American furniture.

Among the hostess gowns, Piccadilly has a beautiful sleeveless white velvet delicately sprigged with red and pink flowers. The ruffled neckline dips low in the back and the ruffle is repeated at the hem. A bright pink velvet ribbon lies in the back. If you're having a Christmas party, this may be just what you're looking for. ($45)

Or, (the selection is fascinating) a long silk gown in poetic tones of greens and blues; or a long red plaid skirt topped with white satin and cinched at the waist with a black belt. The top has long sleeves and a simple collar.

Party dresses may be on your list, and Piccadilly has both shift and full-skirted designs. As we browsed through, we liked the sleeveless silk shift in blended blue-green and purple, with a soft ruffle at the neck and in a row all the way down the front. Also the sophisticated black velvet with a smocked bodice above the full skirt; and the knit with a blue skirt and a white, sleeveless top with a very feminine ribbon belt embroidered in flowers. (All under $50)

Across Nassau Street at the Improvisation Boutique, you'll find "rich hippie" vests, inches thick with gold and silver trim, and very lovable wide velvet belts that lace in front.

Here we found knee-high white boots with an elastic panel on the inner side to help you squeeze them on. Also an unusual high boot in grey calf and kid—soft and tight, with an inner zipper.

Long velvet skirts (or culottes) in deep royal blue or emerald green may be found at Clayton's. We also saw a great Christmas red. ($26.) The store also carries Hadley's dreamy at-home outfit—a long wool skirt in beige, pink or blue basketweave and a cashmere sweater coordinate with a ruffled scoop neckline.

John Meyer has designed a white wool for Christmas parties, trimmed in navy. A skimmer style, it has a scallop neck an adroit sweater. (Also comes in bright green with white trim. ($35.)

To go with it, a white fur hat (lamb), that comes way down over your ears and lies with pom-pom tipped ribbons ($15) Or in mink ($50.)

Skill
and Luck

Some games take skill, others brains, but with all of them you need a little luck. Around in the stores this week: Viking Furniture has Diet Hein's wooden Soma cubes, "variety growing out of variety, returning to unity." The cubes are a cocktail table; pastime, fascinating, exasperating. As Heim, a Scandina-

"Problems worthy of attack prove their worth by hitting back." He's right. ($12.)

"Kahaha," an intriguing game made in Copenhagen, is a very old game that used to be played in the desert, with date pits for stones and beautiful slave girls as stakes.

The version at Viking is more polished—a deep wooden board with 12 rounded out pockets, two large oval pockets, and rosewood marbles instead of date pits. A game for too, somewhat similar to chess.

The Old & New
Down at Country Antiques on Nassau, you'll find a fat, squat wooden bucket dating years back, and the label says, "Charlotte Charles, Pure Strawberry Preserves, 2½ lbs."

And at the Nassau Delicatessen, today's Charlotte Charles — Boston sugar cookies packed in a tin.

It's New To Us

with a big arena, wooden pucks and four wooden sticks. It's a big set, to fit across two card tables. (Center Sports)
Or "Skittles" another arena game, but smaller, in which a spinning top is pilled against peg hazards. Or, for a gang who know hockey, "Eagle Hockey," made in Montreal. The levers on your side pull the blue-suited players up and down the sticks, with their sticks in position to whack the puck. The levers at your partners end manage the red jersey team. (Both at Center Sports, Princeton Shopping Center.)

The University Store has the "Space Maze 10" — a tilting board affair, with holes in it for pitfalls. And the politics game "Consensus." As well as "Strategy" Rummy and Poker.
For serious chess players, chessmen of glazed stone and resin ($29.95) and some beautiful chess boards — all at the U. Store.

Thinking of Teens

Mary Quant makes a line for young girls and you'll find her dresses at Elle on Chambers Street.
One particularly attractive number is burgundy on burgundy — cut velvet forming polka dots with burgundy satin trim at the neck and waist. The puff sleeves are marked off with the satin trim here and there. ($39).
Another Quant, u.s.e.a.

For The Gardener's Joy

Garden "cutlery," put a big red ribbon around a highly polished fork and trowel made by the Wilkinson sword blade people ($14.95) Metal with wooden handles. Or consider a Wilkinson garden cutter or pruner ($4.95-$14.95 — all at Owal Market, Alexander Street.)
Tartan and frags for the garden pool. Realistic little creatures in heavy ceramic. (Kalen's, Palmer Square)
A live Christmas tree — scotch pine, blue or green spruce, Douglas fir or balsam — and enjoy it for years. (Cunningham Nurseries, Lomberville)
Or live juniper for Christmas trim indoors and the garden later on. Mrs. Seudder at Ambleside Gardens will decorate it with red berries, if you wish. (Route 206, Belle Mead)

Scotch tartan with a silver while satin-trimmed brown velvet thread sparkling through it. The fabric is heavy silk and it is cut in a long sleeve, drop waist shirtdress pattern. To go on there's a ruffle at the collar.

We also noticed at Elle an orange crepe with a scoop neckline and the flatterer, high-waisted gathered skirt. A typical Quant whimsy are the hundreds of buttons on the wide cuffs at the wrist. ($22).
And maybe your teen will love the satin shirtdress with the longest points over on the collar. It comes in blue or silver. ($36).
Clayton's has a short robe and matching gown in pale blue flannel, trimmed with satin ribbon and embroidered flowers. (Robe $16; gown, $7).
And folding slippers in a wide selection, perfect for suite cases problems. Among the many are white-trimmed pink knits, or blue with a metallic thread. ($5).
A currier bag comes in soft panel prints ($2.50) and shoe stuffers to keep her shoes from curling at the toe are bright blue with gold dots, or in various velvets. ($2.50).
And Clayton's has those gay plastic umbrellas, splashed with flowers, for a rainy day. ($7).
Bailey's at the Princeton Shopping Center has a turned on dress by "Charlie's Girls." Of silk and dacron, with today's full sleeve and gathered low on the hips. ($17.98).
And over at the Picadilly shop on Nassau near Moore's a sugar 'n spice dirndl in skirt bright pink, narrowly belted with a bow. ($18).
And a very feminine velvet party dress in deep green, frosted with embroidered white lace at the neckline. The skirt has soft pleats in the front and the sleeves are romantically long with narrow cuffs. ($40).
Batik print slacks with bell bottoms are at the Sweater Shack in Flemington, beige, overprinted in red, blue and gold design. ($5.59). And wool tweed slacks — we liked the maroon-and-white, and the red-and-black mixtures. ($7.95).
The Sweater Shack has, naturally, a fabulous selection of sweaters. Browsing through, we noticed a pale blue-and-white striped turtleneck in a soft ribbed knit ($3.95); and a soft mohair-and-wool turtle neck of autumn gold with a panel of open work down the front. ($8.95). While you're there, think about a wool dickey. The Shack carries them in autumn colors. ($1.25).
Deep brown velvets are chic this year, and while Elle has them for all ages, there is a very lush and rich-looking selection for younger girls in the early teens. In an A-line, we succumbed to the charm of list in one stop at Center Sports in Princeton Shopping Center. For the hockey player, the land sticks with curved blades, in pee-wee size on up. ($2.25-$3.50) And both Magnus and Hyde are made in skates. Whether it's figure skates you need, or racing, or hockey skates, Center has them in a range from $10.95 to $22.95 (for the Hyde figure skate for ladies).

International Nineteen skis for the whole family are in the hallway near to the parking lot. They run from 6 ft. 6 in. to 4 footers, and nearby are the short red "Pursuit" skis for your mooselet, with a leather strap for his boot. And Canap for the Hyde figure skate for ladies.

"We'll be out of these by Christmas," they say at Center Sports about the double ski boots for children. A very popular item at a right price for growing feet, $8.95.

We browsed through gun cases of leather, camouflage cloth and simulated alligator; fishing rods, reels and lures; tennis and squash rackets.

Bag cars for the golfer come in several varieties, both can be telescoped and put into the car. We liked the easy-to-collapse "Play Day" in light, cast metal. ($19.95).

In warm wool for the whole family, brightly-colored "Wig-wam" brand scarves with fringed ends, headbands in diamond patterns, caps, socks, and even red deekies made in New England where they know how to cope with the cold outdoors.

Every generation alive today, except for the youngest, has known the fun of the American Flexible Flyer sleds. Center has them in all sizes and they're still painting them with red runners.

Adults' outerwear at Center ranges from CPO jackets, hunting jackets and vests, to West Wind quilted dacron tops for sking (the women's are in pastel shades), all in a nice variety, conservatively colored to offset bright shirts or sweaters.

There's quite a collection of ice skates at Tiger Auto on Witherspoon Street. How about blue leather figure skates with silver laces and grey fur at the top for the girl who is always in outfit. ($17.95)

Tiger also has hockey skates ($9.95 to $25.98), depending upon how professional your skater is. And black and white leather figure skates for children — low at the ankle. ($5.49)

The choice of bicycles at Tiger is quite fascinating — whether you're in the market for a tricycle that is sturdy enough to be handed down to another child coming along, or the sturdy Raleigh Fireballs from England for an older child.

The new handbags, coming up like antlers, have the safety factor of keeping the child's head up as he charges along, and so he sees better.

Toboggans in all sizes from a small three-celer ($8.98 up to $26.95) — a great family gift.

Consider a hot seat for the hunter in your family, or for Palmer Stadium... even for old cars at 7 a.m. it's magic, you just sit on it and it heats up. ($2.49 at Tiger Auto.)

Bird Watcher's Special

A favorite bird feeder we found at Obal Garden Market, on lower Alexander Street, discriminates in favor of the small bird.

Made of redwood, it has sides of wire spaced to keep out the big eaters. On top of the roof is a weather vane. ($11.95)

Food supply already prepared ranges from peanut butter-suet balls ($1.19 for two) to a faked hollow log, roofed to keep the snow and rain off. ($3.25) refills are 80c.

There's a lot you can do with wool felt that's 72 inches wide. Circular table cloths, skirts, to name two. You'll find it in 50 shades (by actual count) at The Fabric Center, Witherspoon Street, ($2.98 & $3.45/yd). And step in at the Fabric Shop on Chambers Street for the small pieces of felt you need for Christmas stockings and so on.

Irish Mist — Ireland's legendary liqueur in an elegant bottle shaped like a soldier. ($17.75 at Varsity Liquors)

A sporting vest — choose the Christmas red flannel in the poop-boy model ($15); or the sophisticated all-wool in a genery check, ($16.95 at the English Shop)

A chaffin tie — try a yellow-with-red paisley design. ($3.50 at Harry Ballot)

Binculars — for bird watcher and sportsmen. Mall Camera at the Shopping Center has the Nikon pocket-size so small it can double as an opera glass. Many others, $24.95 up.

flannel with the stocking all ready outlined on it, and directions to go with. (9c)

Lenna has several Christmas print cutouts — for a child's dress, a special cloth, place mats, tray covers. Using an Indian head fabric of wreaths, a customer plans to turn each wreath into a place mat, with the edges bound in red or green bias tape. ($1.79/yd). And there's a filled-socking design on a red-bordered white cotton that's drip dry. (79c/yd).
Over on a special table, Leona has an inspiring assortment of stuffed animals made from her fabrics. We like the ladybug with black lace trim, and the pink-eared mouse of blue corduroy. She has the patterns.

At The Antique Shops

If you collect old butter molds and cookie cutters, there's a good selection at Country Antiques on Nassau Street, across from Cox's. We went in and stayed and stayed, drifting from Erskine piper kilts to old wooden mouse-traps, and we must say the molds are quite a find.

Mrs. Waddell says frankly, "I am kind of proud of them. I've really worked to get them."

She has some meadowware, made in England for the Germans living in this country in the early 1800's. And an unrestored mixing bowl, oblong and quite large, with the original paint still on it — a sophisticated collector's find.

Mrs. Waddell sold a bearskin hat, part of a British guardsman's uniform, to a Lawrenceville teacher the other day, and maybe this is just what you feel your husband needs.

There are more, complete with chin strap . . . and uniform jackets to match, or British tricorne hats, if you'd rather.

She has lots at Princetoniana, plates and glass momentoes — which she wants to sell to alumni families only. Her feeling is that it's really theirs.

And cypress malberry ironstone — almost a complete collection is on the shelves at Country antiques, imprinted by Adams. Paintings, and old frames, and quaintest of all, daguerotypes in perfect condition in hinged gutta percha cases. The cases are in relief design and about 4" square. There are 23.

At Princeton Antiques next door (with the Junior Museum on the other side — this is quite a trio of establishments) you'll find antique jewelry. The collection is quite varied.

We noticed a crank music box by Gately Organ Company of Boston, that dates back to maybe the 1830's and '90's. There's a roller of music with it.

And one-armed bandits that the housewives used to play in the grocery store before the machines were outlawed. The bandits paid off in merchandise.

is the eye-catcher. It's wide loops hang down like a half-size Japanese obi, below the low back.

You may fall in love with a luscious melon-colored gown with the petals slit up to the knee. Of silk and wool, it is cut quite low and basically simple.

Just as elegant is the short white silk-and-wool, tipped in green velvet at the cuff of the long sleeve. Green and white crystal are embroidered over the velvet. The skirt is gently gathered.

Another short length, stunning for cocktails, is the brocade with the irregular silver and gold stripes running horizontally. It's a two-piece dress and jacket, with pockets in the side-front seams.

Nevius Voorhees has those marvelous Valentine knit shells encrusted with iridescent sequins that give life to your long velvet skirt. We liked them all. The most 'way out,' has three oval cut-outs a little above the waistline edged in tiny gold beads, pearls and amber brilliants.

Nevius carries the black velvet harem-tan slippers. The gold quilted insolo looks comfortable ($7.50).

Fake fur "breadtail" skirts at Nevius come in short lengths and are slightly flared in cut. You'll also find slacks made of the same fabrics. ($14 & $18) They would look marvelous with one of the mohair and wool sweaters the store carries.

Snowflakes on white is the basic note of an elegant white sweater for a fastidious woman. Made of angora, nylon and lambs wool, we embroidered pearls and crystals forming a deep collar and trim down the front to the waist. ($23.)

This looks like Christmas!" a woman said as she paused at the white quilt housecoat with rose-red satin front sash while we were browsing. Cut on a full A-line, with three-quarters sleeves, and lined in nylon tulle. (and certainly very, very pretty. $35.)

The dressy housecoats and hostess gowns have exotic touches of metallic embroidery. We noticed a light green with gold metallic embroidery above the gathered skirt, and a slim cord of gold at the neck.

You may not realize it, but Indian scarves and stoles are at Stone's Linen shop . . . white or soft colors, all sparkled with gold thread. They are very beautiful and would be lovely with an evening coat, or to use as a wrap on a southern cruise. ($3.50 and $8.50)

For the Candy Cane
Set . . .

At Stone's Linen Shop on Nassau are some adorable aprons and bibs for the wee one on your list. From Austria, a red Christmas apron trimmed with blue hearts, and a cross the three little pockets, tiny designs, such as children riding a donkey cart.

And a "squeaky" bib to be worn the slow eater. Made of white quilted cotton, quaintly trimmed, each bib has a puffed spot that squeaks when you poke it. ($1.75 to $3.)

Stone's has a great feeling for children. You can tell this from their choice of pajama bags — such as the green-and-white duck, or the sleeping puppy or the Humpty Dumpty.

An Indian dress in tan suede will suit a moppet on your list. There's a string of wampum at the neck. (Allen's Children's Center.)

Also at Allen's are the red velvet toddler suits for brother and sister. The dress is smock-

ed. The boy's suit has suspended ears and a white shirt.

Chitty-Chitty Bang-Bangs are at Nassau Hobby Center, where you'll see about everything in cars.

And Christmas mobiles that move gently in changing patterns. Choose a red and green baskets — or blue stars and bells, made of paper. ($3 and $4 at Ambleside Gardens.)

Zinders has expanded it's toy shelves so that whatever you're looking for, the store probably has it. We noticed science kits — Neanderthal Man, Rex Tyrannosaurus, the eyeball — to name a few.

Creative gifts for the kids also include a weather forecasting kit, chemistry and ecology sets, microscopes and telescopes.

Antique Dolls Are Quite a Thing

The Historical Society is holding an exhibit of treasured old dolls this month, and over at Trinity Church a miniature tour of period doll houses is scheduled for December 18.

You can venture into this type of collecting yourself down on Nassau Street at Country Antiques. We saw two charming pink-checked little dolls there, one a milliner's doll circa 1810 of paper mache, wearing its original clothes, Mrs. Eleanor Waddell believes. Another, about the same dainty size, and dated maybe 50 years later, dressed for all the world like Mary Todd Lincoln. And there are others.

We noticed a flower-model doll house of the late Victorian era, with the entrance on the side, and another with a complete attic. And one of the Bliss lithographed Mother Goose looking through the front window, a quaint remnant of the 1880's.

And doll furniture for the houses, such as rare French papier mache dining table and chairs, elegantly lacquered in black and painted with tiny gold scrollwork.

At Edith's, on Chambers Street, where lingerie ranges from the conservative to the way-out, we saw a robe for somebody's angel—white flannel with gold braid ribbon trim down the front and edging the elbow-length sleeves. Small buttons. ($24.)

Other robes that delighted us included the cotton quilted, as well as the white and green flowers, with blue and green (short) ($20 long version; $16 flannel. Huntly with gold braid trim.

Edith's favorite is a black and white robe with black marbled trim at the collar, lining the front edges and at the hem. This is a Jean Harlow outfit, if ever there was one—and it comes with a white gown, edged in black (Edith has a variation in brown, with a lime green gown.)

Her peignoirs include an ice-blue satin quilted robe with long side slits through which the satin gown shows. The gown itself has a low scoop neck and a ruffle at both neck and hem. (This comes in long and short versions.)

Or, if you prefer, Edith has a sapphire blue velvet robe, long and wrap-around in cut, accented with wide silver braid trim. You will also find this in black. Here you'll see the new braids by Ball, and some amusing half-slips, bras and pants that match—daisies on black, and way-out, flower prints. You'll find "mini-halves" in the half-slips, too.

And at Ladybug's the color story-four basic colors to mix and match. Among the lingerie we were delighted by the canary yellow robe of nylon quilting printed with small green flowers, with a matching nylon nightie. ($23, robe—$9 nightie)

All of the Ladybug gowns have straight lines, a slight bodice held at the top with shoestring straps. For Yuletide cheer, see the robe and gown in Leno, (which looks like cotton eyelet), all white except for a bright pink sash. Among the attractive, youthful half-slips is a print nylon with a scalloped hem. (Wear it with a scallop-hem skirt, but get the dips in the right places.)

Folding snack tables, so handy when you entertain, are near the door at Nassau Interiors, so you can find them easily. All are in sets of four in narrow racks. Finished to resist staining from drinks, beet juice and whatever else the table tops come in varied designs.

Another attractive extra is the small cigarette table, and Nassau Interiors has them in what is really a miniature of the usual end table. You have quite a choice.

Porcelain lamp bases, repeating the age-old museum pieces, have an adaptable way of adding to the attractiveness of either contemporary or 18th Century furnishings. Nassau Interiors has them in various sizes and shapes, including the Continental style.

Aluminum shaft golf clubs by Wilson are a new thing on the courses. A lighter club than the steel shaft, the weight is given to you at the head and you get a better feel. (Center Sports, Princeton Shopping Center.)

Electric socks — great for the duck blind at 5 a.m. and the right length and weight for skiing. Called "Leet-Sox," the heating is done through a cable from a D-cell battery at the sock end. Wear with the attached garter, ($9.95 — Center Sports.)

A dragster bike, with five speeds, front hand brakes, a stick shift on the gears and swept-back handle bars. Made by Raleigh, and features a fast get-away. ($67.50 at Tiger Auto, Witherspoon Street.)

Ski Bob II — a two-seater bike on skis. The front ski turns with the handlebars. (AM Tiger Auto)

blue-and-white designs reminiscent of the China Clipper days.

We suggest you look around at the interestingly framed mirrors, ranging from a heavily framed 57 up to large ones for behind the couch or over the refectory table. And speaking of tables, one of the most adaptable is the "Parsons table" with a tortoise shell finish on the top. As Leonard LaPlaca will demonstrate for you, it is remarkably adaptable to all kinds of rooms.

Lennox in Lambertville has the Early American theme. We saw a what-not shelf of mahogany with four open shelves and two small drawers at the base ($110), and a very pretty gateleg table that is sized for small rooms. ($87.50). Also a blacksmith's "shoein kit" (for an occasional table) and snack benches that telescope.

For someone who admires the butterfly motif, Lennox has it on china dessert-coffee plates, on ever-useful small china boxes, as well as on cups and plates. ($14.95).

We noticed, among many attractive things, the spread eagle door knocker of brass ($14.95); Williamsburg brass and iron trivets; and that old favorite of pine and cherry—a split spindle mirror with a Currier & Ives print above it. ($10.) And Stieff's reproduction of a Williamsburg pewter tea pot (2½ pint size, $65).

At Viking Furniture, 259 Nassau, are the beautiful rug rugs—with a subtle beauty all their own. For your wall or your floor, sizes 59-inches up. (The rug is known among housewives as the "conscience rug"—when the dirt bothers you, shake it out.)

We noticed here the extraordinarily beautiful African drums made by Roger Maren of Princeton. They are box-like drums, slotted at the top in an approximate letter H. When the drum is struck with the felt-covered mallets, it has a deep, rich tone. (About $40.) We wish we knew more about them.

Bahadurian, at State and Cherry Hill Roads, showed us a Beach oriental rug that is a nice, instant-of-the-furniture size. The center has a snowflake design, with a chevron pattern on the borders, and the ends are fringed. (5½ x 3 $95).

He has a Keshon that is a semi-antique — meaning that only natural dyes were used and that it is at least 50 to 75 years old. The colors are a soft, pleasing blue-cream-and-rose. The center of the rug forms a focal crest which is intriguing. ($300.) The size is about 4 x 6 ft.

Mr. Bahadurian never has as many oriental rugs as he would like. It is a gift-like a painting—that increases in value with age.

Christmas Music

This may be the year to take up the harp, and to get you started, Farrington Music Center, U.S. and Washington Road, has an auto-harp called a "Jubetone," painted red, with an Austrian look to it. It is a miniature harp, to hold in your hands by the castle fire. An attractive instrument, worthy of hanging on your wall. ($28.50)

Also at Farrington is the electric chord organ known as the Organaire. You can start right in with only a little practice, as the chords are lettered and the keys numbered, matching the music book. This will be fun for Christmas sing-ins. ($29. up)

At the Music Shop on Pubner Square you'll find the new recording, "Christmas in the Holy Land," which features ancient Christian liturgies. An interesting recording.

If the children have taken over the family television set, we suggest you investigate the Panasonic unit that combines a small TV with an AM-FM radio. Compact, completely portable, and has a clear reception. (169.95)

Stereo sets by KLH are at the Music Shop in a full line. You'll also find the Hartman Karden stereos that will plug into the Cassette tape recorders. We were sort of taken by the Panasonic AM-FM radio, record player and two small speakers—$129.98 for the set.

Among the FM radios, a very good buy is the KLH model 21. It is very compact, with an astonishing sound quality. It can also power an external speaker, supply a signal directly to a tape recorder for highest quality recording of FM broadcasts, or serve as a monaural tuner of superb quality for a separate sound system.

Children's records at the University Store made the new, pervasive but pleasurable Gold on books and Golden records. A set of "Read & Hear" is 60¢, and the series includes "Frosty the Snowman" and "The Night Before Christmas." The FM-AM "Portable Powerhouse" by Sony is also at the U-Store. A nice transistor set that weighs only 2½ pounds, it has a full range of jacks including recording, FM stereo multiples and earphone. ($39.95)

love this, is RCA's unique contribution in AM portables. The AM radio will float in fresh water. Made in a somewhat Mondrian design plastic, it is around eight-inch tube. Footwear Plain &
Fancy

The Nassau Shoe Tree and Hult's have given a lot of thought to your Yuletide needs in footwear.

At Hult's, the new feather-light stretch black boots that fold into a glad case for a raincoat, comes in four sizes. The boots have tough, non-skid soles. ($6.95 in sizes 6 1/2 and 12 1/4)

The men's shoes with the new straps, buckles, and new boots are available in some 25 styles. The Robbie line includes an ankle-high in rough-grained brown leather with buckle and toe perforations. ($19.99) and the "Cavalier," black, standard height ($18.99). We also liked the Bass loafer, buckled, in smooth brown leather; and the Forsheim ankle-high boot in smooth, nicely grained leather—black or brown.

"George" boots for boys are at Hult's—ankle-high in brown

(sizes 2 1/2, 3 1/2, 4 1/2) and the Stride Rite shoe in rough-grained brown leather (size 3 1/2-6, $15.). Party shoes for women include a very attractive black silk pump with a stacked heel (also available in silver), priced at $15, and Joyce's silver or gold metallic pump, beautifully frothed in a bow at the toe, with the new wide heel. ($17)

A very mad shoe for girls is made by Stride Rite in place black patent leather with a gold mesh chain across the toe. ($11.50 and Hush Puppies in beige suede with a gold chain.

Christmas gift slippers at Hult's include the marvelous Comely — we like particularly the full slipper model with a felt fringe at the toe and around the ankle edge — and it comes in bright pink or night blue.

The Nassau Shoe Tree on Palmer Square has an exquisite selection of delicate, feminine footwear — most of it so charming that you will find it hard to contain yourself to buying just one pair.

Jacques Levine's slinky blacks in gold or silver kid are perfect for dancing, because they stay firmly on the heel. The toe is accented by an oval of brilliants. We also liked the Realities' closed back pump in silver-blue brocade with a fluff at the bow.

An elegant black satin pump caught our eye, the only trim is a slim line of brilliants set low across the bow. (Retail $125; you may prefer the De Lizo Dech model in bronzed

Hinkson's has a supply of buddy buttons. You wear one on your lapel (or next to your medalion), and your buddy wears the other. Millions of sets, like "Flower Power" & "Blushing Violet," "Napoleon" & "Josephine," "Nature Lover" & "Babe in the Woods" & "Say When" & "When" kid with a folded satin bow that is a high example of the art.

We noticed many delicate sandals — the variety is great enough that we doubt you'll see your matchmate at a party.

An intriguing designer's whim is the silver or gold kid with a bow of velvet accented by a minute spiral of matching kid. It's the kind of shoe that makes a big foot look small.

In gold lame, several designs, one of which has a devastating gold buckle treated with an artfully-folded lame bow.

And handbags for evening — beautifully sculptured gold or silver kid, brocades, metallics — all perfectly sized for evening.

Stocking Stuffers

For golfers: a practice ball attached to cord and stake ($2.50); or a pocket score card on a key chain ($1.). (University Store.)

Charms for her bracelet, gold or silver items that all mean something to the wearer. (The Watch Shop, Chambers St.)

Sculptured dogs — collectors' items about 4 inches high. Included are collie, German shepherd, hound, and English setter. (About $5 at Cummins Shop.)

For pre-schoolers — toy cars, wooden figures, small games, sheriff badges and wind-up toys. (Stuff 'n Nonsense)

Model railroad accessories — small scale houses, stations, barns and people to add to the realism of a railroad layout. ($1.99 up; Nassau Hobby Center)

Package of stamps — for the young collector (50c up; Nassau Hobby)

Tiny wooden trains, a colorful chuffer and freight cars ($2.95; Allen's)

A set of four animal faces (turn it upside down for the sound); at Zinder's.

Miniature round puzzles — the picture on the box gives TOWN TOPICS readers every home and place of business served by the Princeton post office. By their own figure, no other Princeton newspaper does half as well.

Also for gellers: a set of PeeGeeBee practice balls (Varsity Sports)
Wanderer's crystal jellies ($1.10; Nassau Delicatessen)
Wheel of 8 cheeses — sampler's size. ($1.95; Nassau Del.)
Christmas cookies — all kinds. (Louise Maas)

Jewelry For Christmas

The Watch Shop on Chambers Street has an attractive display of earrings for pierced ears. We noticed small jade cubes, fluted gold bells and a set with three tiny turquoise balls among the wide assortment.

There's also a beautifully carved ivory necklace that would complement a velvet dress, and exquisite circles of jade and pearls to pin to your collar.

The Watch Shop will order monogrammed pins for you in sterling or karat clad — three initials in script lettering that is very feminine. (Two weeks delivery, or hurry.)

Handpainted pans and earrings for Christmas are at Claydon's and you can choose from quite a variety of Santas, snowmen, Yule trees and wreaths. ($2.)
On the same theme, red and green bells for your ears, or as a bracelet ($1 & $2) and a gold mesh watch band so small that it is a ring. ($1).

MANAGEMENT CHANGES
At The Catacomb, The teenagers' coffeehouse in Trinity Church basement is now under the full management of Trinity parish, phasing out Youth Associates, Inc., which has previously shared responsibility. Barry Peterson, a teacher at Rutgers Preparatory School, continues to help with program and management. Four Princeton Seminary students are at the Catacomb on separate Friday and Saturday nights: Robert Reynolds, Richard Sindall, Clark Wiser and Robertson Gustafson.

Direction of the coffeehouse is headed by the Rev. Reuel Kaighn Jr. and William Knight of Trinity and Dr. D. L. Migliore of the seminary faculty. New goals were announced for the Catacomb in the November Trinity-All Saints Bulletin, set "with the hope they will provide the movement from 'Coffee House' to Christian Coffee House."

Goals Announced. The goals are "To convey at a time and in a context where it can be received, something of the nature of the Christian Faith and its motivating force in the lives of those leading the program."

"To provide a situation in which staff persons can relate to those coming to the Catacomb in order that they may come to understand themselves and receive adult counsel."

The Catacomb is open from 8 to 11:30 on Friday and Saturday evenings. Its purpose, as outlined in the bulletin, is to provide the teens with a place to gather for conversation, entertainment and growth in understanding. Also, to give the parish and the community a point of contact with Princeton youth.

CLOSING COMPLETED
On Princeton Nursing Home. The closing on a $1.5 million first mortgage for the Princeton Nursing Home, which should be ready for occupancy by March 1970, has been completed.

The nursing home, located at Mt. Lucas and Herrontown Road, will have facilities for 128 residents. The mortgage is payable at 6-3/4% over a 20-year period.

STUDDER TIRES LEGAL
From November to April. The director of the State Motor Vehicle Division, June

Sireckel, has announced that studded tires may be used throughout New Jersey between November 1, 1968 and April 15, 1969. The decision followed a review of information on studded tires submitted by the New Jersey Department of Transportation and other sources. Although the reports indicated these tires may cause abnormal wear on road surfaces, the safety features of studded tires warranted their use. Some minor changes will be made by the Division for approving standards of studded tires for this winter.

NEW OFFICE OPENED
By Regional Study Council. A new branch of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council has been opened at 3 Spring Street, Princeton, according to John P. Moran, president of the council. The Study Council was created earlier this year by more than 50 civic and professional leaders to direct new planning developments in Middlesex, Somerset and Mercer County.

Mr. Moran said that an important purpose of the organization is to encourage the long-range physical, social, and economic planning of the Central Jersey area for the benefit of the entire community.

The council also hopes to stimulate community interest in the regional planning process and to furnish an objective citizen viewpoint on major planning problems, according to the council president.

Mr. Moran emphasized that anyone with questions concerning regional planning or the role of the council should visit the new office in Princeton.

ber 27, in Givoli Hall. Professor Reblum, a research biologist, has accepted an appointment as professor of biology at the University of Virginia's new Center for Advanced Studies. His lecture is called "How to Multiply By Dividing" and will acquaint the school-aged audience with his own research on cell growth and development.

Professor Reblum was one of the Princeton residents who planned and established the Princeton Junior Museum. He has been a member of the board of trustees since its incorporation in 1961.

The annual lecture is sponsored by Princeton University. Free tickets are available for interested school children at the museum, 175 Nassau Street, on Saturdays and Sundays.

$50,133 STILL NEEDED

By United Fund. The 1968 United Fund Red Cross campaign needs $50,133 in contributions to attain its goal of $409,297, according to Willard Singer, campaign chairman.

Donors have collected over $400,000 so far. Divisional results are: Research, 65% of its quota; Special gifts, 89%; Professions, 80%; Mercantile, 62%; Princeton University, 87%; Building Trades, 87%; Princeton Shopping Center, 90%; Education, 91%; and Area Campaign, 65%.

Mr. Singer noted that this year's goal can be reached with one final effort by all volunteer solicitors and from the contributions of individuals and businesses that have not been contacted, but have not yet given donations.

MAGAZINES ON SALE

To Help Scholarship Fund. Gift Certificates from $3 to $10 for magazine subscriptions are on sale at several stores to support the Princeton High School Scholarship Fund.

Up to 30% of each regular or gift subscription will be donated to the scholarship fund. Gift certificates may be purchased at Male's Book Store, Zinder's Stationery Store, Princeton Book Mart, The Junior Museum, The University Store, and Young's Music Shop in the Princeton Shopping Center.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

By Rocky Hill Group. An open house in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Englebrecht, founders of the Rocky Hill Community Group, will be held from 4 to 6 p.m., Sunday, at the Community Center.

A painting of the Amy Garrett House by Mrs. Arthur Rayless will be presented to the Group's founders by Mrs. Charles Allen, the group's president.

The Englebrechts were instrumental in acquiring and restoring the Amy Garrett House for use as the community center. Mr. Englebrecht desired the restoration and his wife served as president of the group. The open house will also include the dedication of the Loreta Merritt Parlor and the Dr. John Kenyon Historical Room. A display has also been planned by Mrs. Barenholtz of her antique toy collection.

CEASE-FIRE PETITION

To Be Circulated Next Week. A petition calling for a cease-fire in Vietnam will be circulated by the Princeton-Lawrence Branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (WILPF) from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., December 16-21, at Palmer Square.

The petition, which is part of a nationwide WILPF campaign, states that "continued human slaughter during peace negotiations is both inhuman and immoral" and calls for an end to the fighting in Vietnam, according to Anne Levy, a spokeswoman for the group.

The petition will be sent to members of Congress, the Secretary of State and the President. Further information about WILPF and its program in this area may be obtained from Anne Levy, at 799-9503.

COEDUCATION IS TOPIC

For WJWH Broadcast. Coeducation at Princeton University will be the subject of a two-hour broadcast on WJWH 1340 at 7:30 p.m., Thursday. After 8 p.m., the public may participate by telephone conversation with the panel members.

Speaking in support of the coeducation proposal will be Professor Gardner Patterson, author of the Patterson report recommending coeducation; William D. Lippincott, a co-occurring member of the Patterson committee and Executive Director of the Alumni Council; and University senior Mark Miller.

Opposing coeducation will be Jan Kobak, a Princeton junior, while Malcolm A. Moore, a 1959 graduate, is in disagreement with the proposal. Mr. Moore is a graduate of Harvard Law School and serves as chairman of the Western Washington School's Committee. The final panelist, Dave Miller, class of 1968, advocates alternative solutions. The program will be moderated by Herbert W. Hobler, president of WJWH and a 1941 graduate of Princeton University.

ART In Princeton

THE CHRISTMAS SHOW
At Gallery 100, The annual "Under 100" December show at Gallery 100 is on again, with as much gay choice as ever in small paintings, graphics, sculptures, pottery and jewelry, all at prices well under or near the $100 mark. What contributes much to the festive look are the bright little lithographs by Chagall, whose floating figures, houses, animals and flowers are tossed with abandon into his schemes. Hand painted Persian lithographs which tell their tales ornately, and sharp Balle prints such as "Les Deux Oiseaux" featuring the artist's signature in character and size comparable to the subject, add further zest to the atmosphere.

Artistically, the watercolors of Lui Shou Kwan are the most appealing to us. Tonal, freely painted, each abstract design is balanced by a touch of reality: a town, slightly sketched, gives enormous scale to the mountains above and a tiny boat, barely indicated on a wide stretch of lake, makes immense the landscape around it. Silk screens by Robert Burkert are handsome, notably two which contrast in spirit "Wild Flowers, Spring," and "Wind Break, Winter."

Bryon Temple, whose studio is in Lambertville, shows, for the first time here, a selection of his pots characteristically straight-sided, chunky and cylindrical in shape. His finishes are dry with occasional glazes, his earthy tones are sparked every now and then by a strong blue. The hanging planter pots and standing urns are simple and especially good looking.

LIGHT AND SHADE: This picture, taken in Italy at the Sanctuary of Loreto near the Adriatic coast, is one of the photographs by Mary Ann Brockman, now on view at the Present Day Club.

Eskimo sculptures in soapstone are again popular show pieces. Everyone is bound to like the big satisfied polar bear carved out of one of the most beautiful pieces of green soapstone we've ever seen. Many other gay objects are here to choose from or just to enjoy visually.

TRAVELS IN PHOTOS
With Mary Ann Brockman. An exhibition of photographs by Mary Ann Brockman entitled "A Journey in Pictures" is on view at the Present Day Club throughout December. Visitors are welcome by appointment (phone 921-1014).

Mrs. Brockman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Knaefer of Princeton, has traveled extensively in Eastern and Western Europe. These pictures were taken on trips during the years she lived in the Netherlands with her husband, the late Dr. Karl W. Brockman, Jr., formerly of the Department of Physics at Princeton University.

The photographs faithfully reproduce the very different characters of each country and its people. The most seemingly spontaneous of them are exceptionally charming: an Uzbek couple, the children of Siberia, a fallen skater! In opposite technique, she has done a good job on three deliberately composed views of Congress Palace using light effects on the angles and geometric structure patterns to sharpen the impression. In black and white and in color, the photographs tell much of the traveler's interesting experiences.

WATERCOLOR SHOW
At McCarter Theatre. The Princeton Art Association has sponsored an open watercolor exhibition for which 53 watercolors were submitted by artists in the Princeton area and out of which 37 were selected by the juror Ralph Fabri. Mr. Fabri also awarded prizes, the most important of which, The Patron's Prize, went meritiously to Joanne Augustine for her rendition of an old house in landscape. Painted in a loose, free style and with a nice moody feeling, this is obviously the most interesting picture in the show.

Miriam Friend won the Materials Prize for a well handled figure: Yashikawa's landscape won the Gallery 100 Award; William Hankinson's "Boat Yard" received the Solfo Prize and William Springs was given the Donor's Award. E. W.

Brown, Mark Ritts and Florence Hillier were awarded Honorable Mentions.

GORLEIGH SHOW OPENS
On Cherry Valley Road. Under the auspices of the Studio on The Canal, Rex Gorleigh has started showing work by Princeton artists at 5 Cherry Valley Road, just off Route 206, by appointment only (phone 924-1795). The first of the shows planned to run continually is especially designed for Christmas and includes small paintings, watercolors, portraits, sculptures and drawings.

Among these are William Baumol's free form sculpture shaped out of an elegant tall piece of wood, two sensitive black and white drawings of universal theme by George Greens, and two watercolors of new and exhilarating Maine subjects by Rex Gorleigh. The "Storm at York" is one of his best watercolors to date and its turbulent mood is neatly contrasted in the clarity of "The Lighthouse" he painted the day after the storm.

WILLI HARTUNG EXHIBIT
At First Presbyterian Church. Until January 8, there will be open to the public in the halls of the Parish House of the First Presbyterian Church a showing of paintings by Willi Hartung who is currently teaching art at Stuart Country Day School. Mr. Hartung, son of a Zurich artist, studied arts and crafts in Switzerland, traveled largely in France, Italy and Greece. —Continued on Page 50

Vietnam Appeal

Captain Paul Langner of Cranbury, serving with the Special Forces in Vietnam, has relayed through his wife an appeal on behalf of 5,000 homeless Montagnards who are refugees from the Tet offensive at Khe Sanh. The need is for blankets, clothing (all ages), shoes and other items suitable for the coming cold, rainy season in the mountains.

According to Mrs. Langner, the Montagnards — "a people much like our American Indians, primitive, excellent fighters and fiercely loyal to their American friends" — are living on land borrowed from the Vietnamese, with one cow per 300 people and whatever they can grow from the mountainous terrain. . . . They are located about 15 miles from Khe Sanh.

The drive is spearheaded by members of the military advisory command and the Special Forces.

FURNITURE FOR SALE

From Montgomery School. Desks, chairs and other furniture used in the vacant Skillman School in Montgomery Township will be sold at auction next Saturday, December 14. To be held in the Burnt Hill Road School, the sale will benefit the libraries in that school and in the Orchard Road Junior High School.

Members of the Montgomery Woman's Club will sponsor the auction, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. The Skillman school has been unused since it was closed three years ago and is currently the property of the Truesdell Co. of Princeton, which will convert it into an office building.

COUNTY BEGINS WORK

On Mercer Development Plan. County Planning Engineer Leo V. Laaksonen announced that work will start immediately on the Mercer County Comprehensive Development Plan.

At a November 7 meeting, the Mercer County Planning Board named the firm of Alexander and Moskowitz, Inc. of New York as consultant to conduct several phases of the planning project.

The county development plan, originated in 1966, will require three years of preparation. The first year will concentrate on fundamental data-gathering, analysis, mapping and projections.

Total cost of the first year of the program is estimated at $119,500. However, Mercer County will only have to contribute about $25,000, since the Federal government will pay two-thirds of the total costs.

According to Mr. Laaksonen.

PRINCE
I Love You, Alice R. Toklas (thru. Sat.). The "Alice R. Toklas" recipe seems to be: take one nice Jewish boy with allergies and a legal mind, add a nice Jewish girl desperate for marriage to a good provider and a well dressed Jewish mother (with all the usual clichés); stir in a hippie girl, a sure, and salt with humor. The latter is supplied by Peter Sellers, who saves the picture.

It's an adult comedy-drama with the cast playing stereotypes that are naturally comic in themselves. Sellers managed to convey at once a feeling of liberation and bewilderment as he earnestly tries to adopt the hippie doctrine, long hair, fish, the works.

OLDER AND WISER? University campus policemen Buck Russo (left) and Elmer Stout tell what they have learned this past year that will be of help to them next year.

Question Of The Week

Question: What have you learned this year that will be of help to you next year?

Where asked: Witherspoon Street.

Elmer Stout, Trenton, Princeton University campus policeman: I've learned the way the economic situation is today that it would be wise to save more money. If it keeps on the way it is, we won't have any money to save. Things are going sky high.

Charles M. "Buck" Russo, Trenton, campus policeman: I've learned each year but this one in particular that the Christmas holiday begins too early. Especially in Trenton where I live. They had Santa in town and the streets decorated before Thanksgiving. I feel this is detrimental to the youngsters who don't quite understand the meaning of Christmas. I've heard kids ask their parents why Santa was here so soon. It won't help me so much but I hope it will help parents who find it hard to answer this question of early arrival and over commercialization without taking their children's imagination away.

Mrs. Carol Thompson, Bayard Lane, housewife: Not to have two children too close together—especially boys.

Caleb Fullam, 44 Westcott Road: I've left college and I've learned that college isn't for everyone. I wish more people would realize that. . . parents, school advisors. Some people need other things. I'm going into art.

Arthur Smith, 44 Mercer Street, Princeton Seminary student: How to make a movie. Five of us at the seminary are making a movie as a class project. I've learned a lot of techniques which should be useful later on.

Frank Boceanfuso Jr., 32 Oakland Road, body and fender repairman: To keep my mouth shut and mind my own business.

Peter Lichtenstein, 21 Morven Place, student, Community Park School: I've learned that Princeton is a box. That is, it excludes the real outside world. It's a very poor example of a city and a group of people. It's very insulated. It's helped me in deciding to get out as much as possible. Even the ghetto isn't as bad. . . Princeton is like a very miniaturized and very saccharine New York City.

Jim Seery, New York City, teacher: Yoga—it helps you right here (pointing to head). It helps you meditate.

Linda Dowdell, Short Hills, student: What I've learned is to learn as much as you can because it will always help you later on.

Dudley Jones, Dorchester Apartments, Cranbury, engineer: I have encountered the writings of a man who has helped me understand myself and the world I live in. His name is J. Krishnamurti and he lives in India.

Richard Schoch, 151 Balcourt Drive, advertising: The most significant thing locally that I have learned is that just as the nation and the world is changing, Princeton is changing, too. The most significant way is evidenced by the election: Both the Borough and the Township went the other way. I think this reflects a changing attitude toward community government.

William W. Smith Jr., 20 Chestnut Street, trust company, Chemical Bank of New York: I was a teacher at the Camp Kilmer Job Corps Center this summer teaching minority groups to be policemen and I think the thing I learned most was how easily these people learned. They learned a lot more than I thought they would. The percentage of those passing was very high. A lot of people have the idea these people aren't trainable, but they are. Our job was twofold: first, to help these people obtain the equivalent of a high school diploma and second, to teach them police techniques.

Toni Jackson, Westminster Choir College, freshman: In order to have something, you have to work for it.

Russell Shangle Jr., 446 Nassau Street, fifth grader, John Witherspoon School: To be good and to obey certain teachers. I've learned some yell at you and some don't. So you've got to learn when to be good and when to be bad.

Mrs. Sharon Stricker, 204 Ewing Street, teacher: I guess I've learned to be less naive. I don't really believe there is an American commitment to really cure the problems of the cities, to really become involved. I've learned most people don't want to become involved, they don't want a change. Most are inflexible. I was for McCarthy and up until now I thought you could make people become aware and they would therefore become committed, realizing the problems. Now I'm not so sure. I've had a great disillusionment with the American system, the fact that so many people—70 percent, according to the polls—supported the police action in Chicago.

William Garriga, Rocky Hill, PHS senior: Reading Dante's Divine Comedy. I don't know quite how it will help me other than to help me understand history and Dante's philosophy better. I just enjoyed reading it.

Scott Tempel, Route 1, student: I've learned that politics has changed from eight years ago. There are a lot more parties now, more views. I think hearing more opinions about the government will be helpful.

TRAINING COMPLETED

ANNIVERSARY MARKED

By Flower Basket. The Flower Basket, which opened its doors when parking spaces were still plentiful on Nassau Street and long-stemmed roses were $2 a dozen, celebrated its 25th anniversary on Wednesday. Mrs. James Hillier opened the original store at 170 Nassau Street, now part of the Thorne Pharmacy, on December 11, 1943.

As business grew, Mrs. Hillier moved to larger quarters at 122 Nassau Street in 1945, and remained there for four years until the building was demolished to make way for Woolworth's. She operated out of a second floor location for the next nine months, until the present spot at 136 Nassau was ready.

Although, like the price of roses, daisies are no longer 35c a dozen, Mrs. Hillier points out that the jet age and development in the industry have made a superior and more varied selection of flowers available year round. As an indication of the growth of her business, Mrs. Hillier remembers her first Christmas in operation when she sold 12

Another Outer Space Special on Tap

A sequel to the "Wally, Walt and Don" show with a new cast of characters will be televised to home viewers across the country later this month when the manned Apollo 8 flight lifts off for its orbit around the moon.

RCA's Astro-Electronics Division, Princeton-Hightstown Road, has delivered the last of three new scan converters to NASA, which will expand the capability of the space center's network to receive "live" pictures for commercial broadcast. Two new converters have been installed at NASA stations in Goldstone, Calif., and Madrid, Spain, and the last will be added at Merritt Island, Fla.

Shots transmitted from the spacecraft could include deep-space scenes of the earth and close-up pictures of the moon as well as views of Astronauts Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders at work.

The converter transforms "slow-scan" TV signals from the 4½-pound RCA Apollo camera through an electronic "recording-playback" process accomplished in a fraction of a second. Without conversion the Apollo signals would produce badly flickering pictures on conventional sets.

The first "live" television received in American homes from a manned spacecraft came during Apollo 7 in October with astronauts, Walter Schirra, Walter Cunningham and Don Eiseley playing leading roles.

poinsettias in contrast to the hundreds she now sells.

In addition to the usual day-to-day orders, the Flower Basket has also handled several special ones, including wiring flowers to Queen Elizabeth, decorating Mae West's dressing room while she was at McCarter Theatre, presenting flowers to Sarah Churchill from Margaret Truman, and designing corsages for Eleanor Roosevelt when she visited in Princeton.

Mrs. Hillier operated her store as a proprietorship until January, 1964, when Miss Judith Perrine, an employee for many years, joined the firm as a partner. To commemorate the anniversary, the Flower Basket is endowing an annual award to be given to a senior graduating from Princeton School who shows the most promise in art.

CHANGE TO BE MADE
In State Compensation Law. The first major change in employer coverage under the New Jersey Unemployment Compensation Law since 1946 will take effect January 1.
The new legislation provides that businesses employing one or more individuals and which have paid $1,000 or more in wages during any year will be subject to the Unemployment Compensation Law, according to Edward J. Hall, director of the New Jersey Division of Employment Security.

Estimates indicate that over 50,000 additional employers and more than 100,000 workers will be affected by unemployment compensation and temporary disability benefits under the new law.
Employers will now pay 2.8% for unemployment insurance and 1/4 of 1% for disability insurance on the first $3,600 paid to an employee during the calendar year. Worker's contributions will be 1/4 of 1% for unemployment and 1/2 of 1% for disability insurance.

Contribution reports covering both employer and worker liability must be submitted to the Division of Employment Security during the month following the end of each calendar quarter.

TWO GOALS HELPED: This field goal by John Hummer (44), guarded by 6-10 Randy Denton of Duke, helped Princeton take a 25-21 lead at first half Saturday in Madison Square Garden. However, Tigers could not maintain the pace. (Inga 81-62)

SPORTS in Princeton

NAVY NEXT FOR TIGERS
Home Opener Saturday. It is probably just as well that the Duke basketball game, once scheduled as the dedication extravaganza for Jadwin Gymnasium, was played 50 miles away in Madison Square Garden.

Assuming that a capacity crowd might have been on hand for the occasion, some 7,000 people would have left wondering when and how the Tigers will be able to solve the problems that confront them when they play top ranked teams. Against Villanova ten days ago and in the Duke game Saturday, they came unglued in the second half; the word is out that their guards are a collection of green pears, and the pressure is beginning to tell on the big three up front.

There is little reason to believe that a home-court advantage in Jadwin would have dulled a ounce powder on the Princetonians which could have prevented the errors they made, and kept Duke coach Vic Bubba from saying after the game, "We played them too wide in the first half. In the second half, we shut the door on their front line and cheated a little on their guards. It worked fine."

It certainly did. John Hummer and Chris Thomforde combined for 24 points in the first half, providing the Tigers with the foundation for a 35-31 lead at the intermission. In the second half, with the door shut, they made a total of 7. Geoff Petrie had 19 for the afternoon, but as he had been the case in the 64-54 loss to Villanova, most of his points came after the game had been stolen.

When play resumed, Princeton went almost four minutes without scoring a point. The lovers kept within reach until the 12-minute mark but Duke then ripped off ten straight points and coasted for the next eight minutes. It was an 81-62 final, and just as convincing as the score sounds.

Four within Reach. Having just against two of the better teams in the U. S., Princeton will learn much about its true ability in the next four games on its schedule. If the Tigers are to have any semblance of real success this winter, it is virtually essential that they trim Maryland, Navy, Rutgers and NYU.

The Maryland contest was scheduled for Wednesday night at College Park. Navy is the first game of the season Saturday at 8 in Dillon Gym. The Tigers will be in New Brunswick Tuesday night to face a capable Rutgers quintet and round out the pre-holiday portion of their schedule the following night in Dillon Gym against NYU.

Princeton's difficulty stems from the fact that while Thomforde, Petry and Hummer are all a year older, and presumably that much better, no one among the newcomers is close to filling the shoes of the graduated John Haarlow and Joe Heiser — particularly the latter. If Petry is moved into the back court, where he played last winter with Heiser, there is no replacement for him on the front line.

Heiser's foul-shooting ability — no. 1 in the nation a year ago — set a strong enough example for the rest of the team so that Princeton ranked among the best in free-throw accuracy. Not so any longer—in the Garden Saturday, the Tigers were a miserable 14 for 28, "paced" by Hummer's 3 for 12 after he missed his first seven.

THIRD PERIOD FATAL
To Tiger Hockey Team. Tied with St. Lawrence at 5-5 and with Boston College at 2-2 in the third period of both games, Princeton's hockey team lost twice last week because it could not quite stay with the opposition in the stretch run. The final scores were 7-5 and 3-2.

The two games were sharp in contrast. Thursday night's opener with St. Lawrence produced 21 penalties, including a major against the visitors for a vicious high stick, and a vast amount of considerably sloppy play. Saturday's game against B. C. was marked by much-improved play on the Tigers' part and a far cleaner contest in which only five penalties were called.

Princeton lost the St. Lawrence encounter in the first two minutes, when the first three shots at goalie Middy Tilghman got by him. It was greatly to the Tigers' credit that they battled back to even terms, even though they eventually lost on a garbage goal.

Steve Gill, Jon Taylor and Jack McNab all turned on the light for the home forces before the first round ended, and they left the ice trailing by only 4-3 after the disastrous start. The visitors made it 5-3 midway through the second round, but McNab got his second of the night five minutes later, and at 4:09 of the third period, defenseman John Kuckacki brought the Tigers even at 5-all.

PRESSURE TACTICS: St. Lawrence goalie dives for a shot as Tiger forwards Pete Stuckey and Jon Taylor attack in second period. After trailing 3-0, home team drew even at 5-all but final score was 7-5 against it in penalty-ridden game. (Richard Edwards Photo)

Thirty seconds later, however, a Tiger defenseman lost the puck squarely in front of the Princeton cage and Bill Wilkinson of the visitors banged it between Tilghman's legs. Despite some faulty goal-tending on the victors' part, the Tigers could not draw even again.

Their first-game problems were visible throughout the evening, particularly during the second period when they had a two-man advantage for much of the seven minutes that Greg Higson of St. Lawrence spent in the bin for high sticking and holding. A lone goal was the best they could muster out of the prolonged manpower advantage. It was, however, the fifth game of the season for the visitors and the Tigers have such a heavy schedule that they were not permitted under intercollegiate rules to book a pre-season scrimmage.

Scoring Punch Lacking. As had been clearly anticipated, no one on the current squad will provide the offensive power that John Ritchie and Terry Peterman took with them when they graduated. As a result, a vastly improved defensive performance against Boston College went down the drain Saturday when the Eagles produced a third-period score that Princeton could not match.

Goals by Denis Grande and Captain Jerry Kearney in the second period offset a pair by the visitors. Kearney's came when he and senior Pete Stuckey were penalty-killing — always a great morale booster — and the Tigers went into the final round with a chance to repeat their upset of the Eagles achieved last winter in Boston.

They were not, however, quite equal to the task. B. C. was — beating Tilghman on a bouncing shot with 3:45 to go and holding off the tiring Tigers until the buzzer.

Army was on the schedule at West Point Wednesday night and the team will be at Hamilton, N. Y., Saturday for a game with Colgate. Neither of these opponents will be easy to defeat on their own ice but — like the basketball team — the skaters must win a few before Christmas if they are going

TWO TIGERS NAMED
Princeton Football All-Ivy Units.
Princeton's 1968 football team was represented by one player on each of the All-Ivy offensive and defensive platoons. While the recognition accorded the fourth-place Tigers is not great, there is a silver lining inasmuch as both the men named are juniors.

Shortside guard Mike Guerin, a two-year letterman, was chosen on offense. He is the only returning regular on the line of which he was a member this fall. On defense, the selection was Keith Mauney, a deep back for Princeton who, like Guerin, won a letter as a sophomore.

Despite his ability to run for more yardage (712) and score more points (80) than any other back in the Ivy League, the best Princeton fullback Brian McCullough could do was earn honorable mention. The quartet selected consisted of Brian Dowling and Calvin Hill of Yale, Marty Domres of Columbia and Vic Gatto of Harvard.

McCullough was, however, the only member of his class to earn honorable mention as a ball carrier. Expectations are that he will become the leader — Continued on Next Page guc's best back in his junior year next fall.

Other Princetonians given honorable mention were tackle Bruce Eckman and fullback Ellis Moore on the offensive team; tackles Tim McCann and Bob Hews and middle guard Rich Sandler on defense. Overall, defending champion Yale placed eight players on the 25 man squad (11 on each platoon plus three kicking specialists), while Harvard, which shared the 1968 title with the Blue, had six. Other totals: Penn., four; Princeton and Cornell, two apiece; Brown, Columbia and Dartmouth, one apiece.

The official All-Ivy team is chosen by the eight coaches of the member colleges. Each coach votes only for the players on the seven other teams.

EWING FRIDAY FOE

OF PHS Wrestlers. As do the basketball and hockey teams, the Princeton High School wrestling team will open its season on Friday the 13th.

Although its opponent, Ewing was the class of Mercer County on the mat last year, coach Tom Murray's matmen appear to be the best bet of not coming a cropper on the 13th. With a squad of almost 60 boys, Murray has experienced veterans wrestling in more than half the weight divisions.

RETURNING MATMAN: Chris Mislow will wrestle in the 168-pound class in Princeton High's opener Friday at Ewing. A letterman last year, he is a junior.

"We hope to do better than last year," he said. "We have got a lot of veterans and more experience than we did last year." Countering this was a 14-match schedule which he described as "really tough."

The top four weights are occupied by returning lettermen—all of them varsity football players. They are Lou John Rossi, heavyweight—and only a sophomore; Chris Mislow, 178 pounds; Nick Arcaro, 168; and Maury Peabody, 157. Other returning veterans include Bobby Moore, 130; Bobby Arcaro, labeled by Murray as probably the most improved member on the squad; Hank Wilkinson, 115, team captain; and Mark Evans, 98.

Wilkinson has been the outstanding performer on the team for the past three years. Probably the next best wrestler of last winter, Ross Bayer, will not be back. A former YMCA champion, he withdrew from school this spring and moved to Florida.

A four-way battle is underway among Bill Roberts, Laurie Bloom, Tony Iacomo and Mike McConnell for the right to represent PHS in the 141-pound division. Leon Costa has the edge for the 148-pound class and Greg McLain, at 136 pounds. Dave McDonald and Dave Cushman, a newcomer from Illinois, are battling for the 106-pound spot.

Three Scrimmages. To get his squad ready, Murray has scheduled three scrimmages in three days against Morrisville, Pennington School and Peddie. He is being assisted for the third year by Frank Dippory. Interest in the sport, still a young one at PHS has grown each year. This year's large squad, Murray reported, permits a full freshmen and jay vee schedule in addition to the varsity schedule. "We're looking forward to a good year," he said.

A jayvee match starting at 6:30 will precede the varsity match Friday at Ewing.

EWING HERE FRIDAY

In Key PHS Cage Opener. At the start of practice this fall, Princeton High School basketball coach Larry Ivan called last year's opener with Ewing the key game in a 22-game schedule.

Nothing has changed. This year's opening game for both schools will be held Friday at the PHS gym, starting at 8 p.m. For psychological reasons, the stakes are even higher again this year for both schools.

Last year, both were building, and now have three starters back. As Ewing is picked to be one of the teams to beat in Mercer County, it can ill afford an opening loss to the Little Tigers.

Those who saw the game at Ewing last year will well remember the opening minutes. Ivan, in his debut as head coach had his team sky high emotionally. Against the taller Blue Devils, PHS dominated the first few minutes, built up a 13-7 lead, and had Ewing coach Emil Wandishin chewing his nails.

It ran out of gas in the second half, however, and Ewing won going away, 93 to 62. "If we could have won that first game it might have made all the difference," said Ivan.

Three Starters Back. Three of Princeton's five starters are back — John Madden, Billy Brooks and Jeff Haring. Joining them will be newcomer Fritz Loats, a forward and one of the following three: Bill Nelson, Jim Miller and Tim Taggart. Others among the 10 who will dress are John Grady, Tim Rollings and Bob Kennedy.

Starters returning for Ewing are Dave Cuyler, the big man at 6-6, Karl Harter, who led all scorers in the opener last year with 24 points, and backcourt leader Jim Vogelsong. Also back is Al Harris, who helped Ewing control the boards, and Doug Taylor, Rich Silko and Morris Taylor.

In short, Ewing has experience, height, and depth. In the annual March of Dimes Tournament last week at the Steinert gym, Ewing lost to powerful Cathedral in overtime. Cathedral won it all in Mercer County last year.

The burden is clearly on PHS. Ewing is good and everyone knows it. What is not — Continued on Next Page known is what Ivan has put together in his second effort.

"Do The Best We Can" commented Ivan on the upcoming test: "Ewing will be real tough; they're good, but we'll do the best we can. I don't think it will end as it did last year, at this point, but you never can tell what will happen."
"All I know is we're showing poise and confidence. We'll be there!"

Ivan also reported he is getting a lot of support from the student body. Indications are that the PHS gym should be rocking Friday night.

In an away scrimmage with South River the only team to defeat Group 3 State Champion Perth Amboy last year, PHS won by six points. "They had the type of offense we wanted to get some experience against, and all the boys looked good," said Ivan. He added that Bob Kennedy, coming back off a football injury to his knee did a "real good job off the boards."

In six quarters of scrimmage Saturday against Hun School, the Little Tigers outshot the class of the Prep School league by 32 points. An open scrimmage here against North Burlington and one at East Brunswick were also set before the opener.

"We're improving," remarked Ivan, who is playing his cards a little closer to the vest this year. Just how much will be answered in large part Friday.

SEASON'S OPENER FRIDAY
For PHS Skaters. Under its new coach John Post, the Princeton High School hockey team will open its 1968-69 season Friday night, against the always-tough (for Princeton) Lawrenceville School sextet. The game will be played at the Lattie's Lavinio Rink.

Post succeeds Pete Cook, former Princeton University and St. Nick's player, who is now teaching in an American school in Paris. Cook guided the team the past two years.

Post, from Fairhaven, is just starting his second year at PHS where he teaches power mechanics. Before coming to Princeton he played in a semi-pro hockey league. As the new coach he welcomes back the following lettermen: Bob McCloskey, goalie, wings Chris Gartner and Hugh Fitzpatrick, defencemen John Lehmann and Clint Olson and John Holder, center.

Newcomers include John Weber, a center and Phil Matthews, a transfer student from Vermont. Up from the Jaycee squad are Bruce Hartman, Jim Irish, Ted Delano, Mark Parells and Mark Lelens—the latter three are wings.

Like his predecessors, Post faces the problem operating with no home rink. Presently, the squad numbering between 35-40, practices at the Princeton Day School rink on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30.

After only four practice sessions and with the opener less than a week away, Post reported there is no intention to schedule any outside scrimmages. "Lawrenceville will be a tough one," he acknowledged.

Desire. Yes; Depth. No. "We have an eager group of boys out," he said. "Right now I'd say our strong points are desire and enthusiasm. We're weak in depth in some positions, mainly at the wings."

"But overall," he continued, "things are shaping up pretty well. I'm very optimistic."

Post is being assisted by John Weber, which he described as "an interested parent of one of the players." He saw I had my hands full and offered to help me out." Mr. Weber played the sport in college.

After its opener with Lawrenceville, the Blue and White will break for the holidays and not resume until January 7 when it plays Brick Township at home. All home PHS games are held at the PHS rink. The team will play a 13-game schedule.

HUN SCHOOL FORECAST
Continued Cage Success. With the Penn-Jersey League basketball championship as the pot, Hun School coach Dave Lete holds the equivalent of a royal straight flush. As it did last year when it won the title, Hun again has all the cards.

Rival coaches could accuse Lete of using a stacked deck because Hun, which opens its season Saturday evening at Solebury, has five assets. Returning are the five starters from last year.

They are senior forward Don Silverston, captain of the Red and Black, Herrn Seeler the other forward, center Nat Williams and guards Mike Maguire and Mike Rossi. Rossi and Maguire are juniors, the others seniors. All go between 6-2 and 6-3.

OPENING DATE WITHIN SIGHT: Although no firm date has been set for the first athletic event to be staged in the new Jaden Gymnasium, expectations are that it will be ready for use during the coming winter. Shortage of materials and labor problems have been the two primary reasons for the delayed opening date of the 7,000-seat, $6-million structure. ate from last year's team, which won 13 and lost three in Pete Braveman. Rossi, who started out as the sixth man, performed so well, however, that he earned a spot as a starter.

New Gym Ready. In one sense, no matter what happens, this season will be a success for Hun in that it gave the first use of its new gymnasium — in fact the one gym Hun could ever call its own. The only thing missing are the baskets. "They're in shipment from some western state — Idaho I believe," said Levee. "But we'll have them installed in time for our home opener at Germantown Friends." That game is set for December 17.

For years, Hun has practiced and held its home games in the Princeton Seminary gym. Those who ever watched a Hun game there walked away talking about the playing conditions rather than the game. The Seminary gym was rarely heated and the lighting was one lane brighter than candlelight. On sunny afternoons, visiting teams were shocked to find half of the gym bathed in light from the windows along one wall and the other half in darkness.

With its experience and height, Hun seems to have all it needs. It may lack the bench strength it had last year but it appears that the only thing Hun must guard against is overconfidence.

The team scrimmaged Princeton High School on Saturday. Another with Pledge will be held Thursday.

Asked to name the school, which he believed would give Hun the most competition this year, Levee named George School and Pennington. A graduate of Springfield, Levee is starting his fourth year as coach.

GRID HONORS FILE UP

For Nick Arraro. Nick Arraro's exploits as an outfielder back for the Princeton High School football team come time to be recognized.

Saturday, the Newark papers named Nick to the All State Group 4 first team defense and to the second team, all groups. He was also named to the All Delaware Valley first team of defensive unit, the only backfield regular on the team. Princeton County. Either the 511, 391 pound back had been named to the All Mercer County Bill Penell in the A League. B.I.L., a member of first place. Balesieri, had games of 212, 233, 235. His 700 series was the first of the fall season. The last one was rolled by Jack Lacey during the summer.

Sam List of second place Jay Lin had a 624 series on games of 163, 219, 222, while Wes Cawley of third-place Antlers finished a 606 on games of 169, 232, 201. Jack Petrone had a 222 and Walt Obel a pair, 208, 219. Sandwiched between 200 and 200 were Nick Cicillia, Tony Tamasi, Ed Duncan, Tom Sculerati, Fred Lehnert and Bill Parker.

Balesieri is on top by eight points in the standings with 51. The battle for second place, however, is a hot one with Ivy Lin, Antlers and Smith Book. THREE TEAMS TIED

To Research League. After the second week of action in the Princeton YMCA Research and Industrial Backyard League, three teams remain tied for first place with 20 re.

The newest member of the 10-man league, Boys Club, remained tied with Cynnamid with 1.0 records when it 509 and KTS, 50.35, in its only game. The losers, Joe Patrick, had a 509 high score with 14, while John Peterson was high for Boys Club.

In a first-year game, NCA, the defending champion, was edged hard by ERG before emerging with a 101.97 first round. Excessive fouls hurt ERG.

Hospital, KTS, ERG and P&H RC (Electronic Associates) are the Princeton Chemical Research) all are winless in two games.

BOYS LOSE, GIRLS WIN

In Flying Fish Meets. In the boys' first dual swim meets of the season, the Princeton YMCA boys' Flying Fish team lost in a 1-1 tie to decision to Westfield.

First place winners for the Flying were Dan Marino, Robert Muesel, Andy Bolster, Mike Martin, William Cook and Don Golden. The girls' team lost to Passaic Clinton, 126 to 100.

200 GAME RECORDED

In Women's League. Elaine Masterton of Manvel rolled a 200 game last week, the highest individual effort in the Princeton Women's Bowling League. Jean Foster of Bay Sox had 184, and Helen Scott of Cranbury Bank had 180.

Mrs. Scott converted two three-pin splits on her way to that 200 series, the 5.79 and the 5.810. Marian McCloskey converted the 5.610 and Laura Smith the 5.610.

Rocky & Sons fashioned the high team series of 2326, while Cranbury Bank claimed the high team game of 810. In the standings, Rocky & Sons' remains on top with 81 points, Cranbury Bank, 75; Parry Motor Co., 68; and Manvel, 64.

BOWLING NOTES

Penell hits 700 Series. The Princeton Recreation Lines last week was the 700 series rolled by Sculerati 211, Joe Lee 207 and Milt Shinn 199.

Four Garage has 60 points and a solid grip on first place. 3 over Lumber is second 10 points back, while Princeton Aviation has 48, Ben's Body Shop 44 and First Aid. Kings on Wine and Liquor and Hag, an American Sportsman Club 41.

Mixers, King Pins and Spares are all tied for second place in the Mixed League with 30 points each — two less than that of the leader, Strikes. Taps is third with 28.

Ann Hubbard (92) and Myrtle Smith (178) were high for the women; George Munson (212) for the men.

Jim Silvester rolled a steady 178 183-166 — 525 to level the most pins in the Hi-V League. The best single game was Greg Kline's 189. Jeff Grover had 163 and Bill Skiffman and Willie Rosso 164. Leo Orsi rolled a 157.

Turkeys with 42 points and Misties, 40, are far ahead of Operators and Hi Lo's in the standings.

A 189 followed by a fine 221 pushed Marge Drummond to a 331 series in the business. Women's League, Melba Crater had 179 and Julia Ball 177. Posters were Cary List, 170; Dot Wheeler, 160-169; and Sue Schilling, 167. Bracketed at 164 were Myrtle Smith, Ann Pfister and Joanne Nini — the latter rolling 55 pins over her average.

Claridge Liquor is in first place still with 60 points. Balesieri has 53, Ivy Inn 46, Princeton Taxi 44 and Rocky Hill 43.

From a 246, Vince Tufano tailed off to a 187 178 but that was still good enough for a 603 game in the Nassau League.

Wheeler rolled a 224. Others: Eric Hunt 219, Nick

Santa Claus isn't the only one with great ideas for Christmas. We thought up the Trimline® telephone.

The Trimline telephone is beautifully designed. When you pick up the handset, ten Touch-Tone® pushbuttons, which let you "dial" twice as fast, come to you. That's a new reach! button, too. When you want to make a second call, don't hang up—just push the convenient recall button.

The cost of a Trimline phone is nominal—only pennies a day. And there's no extra charge for color.

If you want Touch-Tone service, the additional Touch-Tone charge covers all the phones on your line. Maybe you'd like to play Santa Claus with our idea. You can. To order Trimline phones in either wall or table models for Christmas, just call your Telephone Business Office.

Also available with standard dial in new compact design.
